DR. HARTER'S

A combination of Protoxide of Iron, Peruvian Bark and Phosphorus in a palatable form. The only preparation of iron that will not blacken the teeth, so charcteristic of other iron preparations.

GENTLEMEN: I have used DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC in my practice, and in an experience of twenty-five years in medicine, have never found anything to give the results that DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC does. In many cases of Nervous Prostration, Female Diseases, Dyspepsia, and an impoverished condition of the blood, this peerless remedy, has in my hands, made some wonderful cures. Cases that have baffled some of our most eminent physicians, have yielded to this great and incomparable remedy. I prescribe it in preference to any iron preparation made. In fact, such a compound as DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC is a necessity in my practice. DR. ROBERT SAMUELS,
ST. LOUIS, MO., NOV. 26th, 1881. 3104 Wash Avenue.

It gives color to the blood, natural healthful tone to the digestive organs and nervous system, making it applicable to General Debility, Loss of Appetite, Prostration of Vital Powers and Impotence.

DESTITUTION AND DISTRESS.

Needy Condition of the People in Southern Illinois.

A Suspension of Tax Collections Recommended.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., January 28.—There is a daily accumulation of evidence at the Executive office in this city, of the needy condition of the people in many of the southern counties of the state, resulting from the drought of last summer. These evidences are in the form of petitions, many of them apparently sent under the impression that the Legislature is now in session; and other evidences are in the form of letters from influential and well-known people. These all contain from the state. These appeals come from the counties of Hamilton, Jefferson, Marion, Perry, White, Union, Franklin, Lawrence, Crawford, Wayne, Saline, and perhaps others in that portion of the state.

One of these petitions says: "The circumstances which give rise to our petition are through the failure of our crops, caused by drouth and chintz-bug last season. We are really suffering for want of proper food for our families and feed for our stock. A good deal of our stock has died already, and a great deal more is getting very poor for want of food. There is plenty of corn, which has been shipped here, but we cannot get the money to buy it. Tax-paying time will soon be here, and

WE SEE NO WAY OF PAYING THEM.

There are some wealthy men who are speculating in the graintrade who are opposed to our receiving any aid from the Government, but all we ask is an investigation of the condition of the poor classes of this county. We believe we are as hardworking and honest as any people, and this is the first time we have ever had to ask assistance. Yet, if we do not get assistance in some way, a great many of us will have to leave our homes to seek employment to support our families."

To this petition there were 150 names attached.

A prominent citizen of Hamilton county saying: "I think you can hardly conceive the misery and want as seen here, nor the helpless fear that rests on our people. I am advised to say, in the interest of all those suffering, that this subject may be properly referred by your Excellency to a called session of the Legislature, including a suspension of tax collection until after harvest. This would leave to the small farmers of Southern Illinois fifty per cent on the amount of their taxes and enable them, through their wheat crop, to save their little homes."

There are numerous letters and petitions from all the counties named, all picturing a deplorable state of affairs. It is even represented that in some localities the people have been driven to live on "ship-stuff" and other coarse qualities of food. The Governor has become deeply impressed with the condition of these people, and, while he has no authority to aid them from the Treasury of the State, he will very likely submit the question of relieving them to the present called session of the Legislature.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION.

One Man Killed and Three Buried in the Ruins.

WATERVILLE, ME., January 28.—A boiler in the mill of the Kennebec Framing Company, Fairfield, exploded this morning with terrific force. A son of ex Warden Rice was killed. John Avery, foreman, and Seman Freeman and Isaac Farkey, engineer, were buried in the ruins. Geo. McKeown and John Smith were badly wounded. Several others were slightly injured. The underwork of the mill is on fire and still burning.

Scoville in Court.

WASHINGTON, January 28.—In the Criminal Court this morning Scoville and Reed, counsel for Guiteau, appeared and the former inquired of the Court in respect of the form of his bill of exceptions, whether he will be compelled to except specificially or whether a general exception would suffice.

Judge Cox stated under the practices of the court he would have to except specifically.

Scoville then stated he had intended to file a motion for a new trial, but would like to have until Monday.

The District Attorney objected, and Scoville stated in that case he would file a motion this afternoon in the clerk's office.

The District Attorney asked the court to assign Tuesday next for hearing argument upon the motion, but upon representations from Scoville he would scarcely be able to enter upon the argument at that time. The court declined to fix a day at present.

Charged With Complicity.

DETROIT, MICH., January 28.—Two somewhat noted characters in local police circles, Dr. Cox, a druggist and physician of somewhat dubious character, and Mrs. Schneider, keeper of a house of assignation, were arrested quietly last night by order of the police authorities on a charge of complicity in the murder of the girl Martha Whitla, whose shocking mysterious death three years ago was again brought into prominence through the libel suit of Hugh Peoples. The authorities reveal nothing of the facts which led to the arrest.

Bulls and Bears.

NEW YORK, January 28—The feeling in Wall street this morning is more generally ... than for a while past, though ... heavy operators are still of the opinion that the time for a genuine and large upward movement is not yet at hand. It is reported an important combination has been formed between the Missouri Pacific, Kansas and Texas, Texas Pacific and Wabash. It is believed that the business of the Southwestern roads is to be turned over to the Wabash line. The Chesapeake and Ohio and St. Louis and San Francisco may also be included in the combination. It is stated that under the terms of the purchase of the St. Louis and San Francisco road, the Atlantic and Pacific will be owned by the Southern Pacific, acting in harmony with the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, while St. Louis and San Francisco becomes the property of Gould. An offer has been made within a day or two of something above the market price for a large block of Chesapeake and Ohio securities. Northwest and St. Paul are favorites with the bulls.

POLITICAL.

The Nichols Appointment.

WASHINGTON, January 28.—Among the nominations sent to the Senate yesterday was that of H. B. Nichols, postmaster, Norfolk, Va. Nichols has held office for twelve years and was supported for reappointment by Congressman Dezendorf and opposed by Senator Mahone. At the request of Senator Mahone the President held the matter open about two months and then suddenly appointed Nichols. The appointment took Senator Mahone by surprise and he hastened to the President and protested against it. Finally the President agreed to withdraw the nomination. A message of withdrawal will probably be sent to the Senate Monday, unless Nichols and Dezendorf, who are now at the White House, can prevail upon the President to again change his mind.

It is said at the Post-Office Department today that the nomination of George Bryant to be postmaster at Madison, Wis., has been determined upon.

The Apportionment Bill.

WASHINGTON, January 28.—The indications now are the apportionment bill will become law.

WASHINGTON, January 28.—The President has signed the census deficiency bill.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Attempted Shooting of Two Young Ladies and Suicide of the Murderer.

PITTSBURG, PA., January 28.—The particulars of a shocking tragedy, which occurred in West Deer Township, this county, yesterday afternoon, have just been received. It appears that a young man named Lee, of West Middlesex, Butler county, started out yesterday morning on a hunting expedition. Late in the afternoon while hunting through the woods a few miles from home, he met two young lady acquaintances who also resided in Middlesex. Without any provocation whatever, and fired two shots, wounding both ladies, but neither seriously. He then ran away and the ladies managed after considerable difficulty and pain to reach their homes where they informed their friends of the shooting. A brother of one of the young ladies named Allison together with three other men started in pursuit of Lee and came upon him in the woods. He made and when he found capture was inevitable he committed suicide by blowing off the top of his head. The parties are all well connected and the affair has created intense excitement. Lee was 21 years of age and has always borne a good reputation. What his motive was for shooting is enshrouded in mystery.

HE RAISED HIS GUN

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

NEW YORK, January 28.—This morning a flagman of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad, found a piece of wood driven between the rails at the Riverdale avenue crossing, near the iron bridge, so as to throw the train off the track. Two of the trains had passed over safely when the wood was found, the flanges of the wheels having cut into it. A most searching investigation by the police, as well as the railroad company, will be made.

IS IT A MURDER?

An Old Man Found Unconscious on a Street Corner.

On the 25th inst. an old man was found on the sidewalk, corner of Seventh and Cerre streets, in an unconscious condition. An ambulance was summoned and he was removed to the City Hospital, where he died last Thursday afternoon, never having recovered consciousness. The body bore several bruises, while the cheek was cut just under, and the forehead just over, the right eye. The man was identified as John Snyder, a Swede. On the 24th he told a waiter at Minkey's saloon, Fifth and Walnut streets, and some people in Baumeister's saloon, corner of Seventh and Cerre streets, that on Sunday, 21st, he was assaulted without any reason, by a locksmith in a saloon at the corner of Third and Spruce streets. He also said that he feared he had received serious internal injuries, which might cause his death. On Thursday, the 25th, he was found at Seventh and Cerre. During Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday he had been seen by his friend and had not received any other injury that they knew of. The coroner will hold a post-mortem examination, which will determine the cause of death. The old man was well-known about town as Switzer. In the summer months he attended to gardens and in the winter he waited in down town saloons. It is supposed that the deceased sustained fatal injuries in the Third street saloon.

GIRL GRADUATES.

Exercises at the Normal School this Morning.

The graduating exercises of the Normal School took place this morning, at the rooms, corner of Seventh and Chestnut. The hall was crowded with spectators, and the programme was such as to reflect great credit on Prof. Soldan, the principal, his corps of teachers and the pupils under his charge. The exercises opened with a solo and chorus, Ave Maria, after which Miss Martha C. Kilgore read an original poem, entitled, "Sparks Kindle Flames." Following this and interspersed with appropriate music were three essays, "Rest," by Miss Rosa Lee Brady; "Peddlers," by Miss Elizabeth Goodson, and "On a New Road," by Miss Nellie Maxon. All the papers were well prepared and delivered. Miss Martha L. Henke recited the class poem, entitled "The Wanderer's Farewell" with splendid effect. The gem of the programme was the essay and valedictory, "When the Tide Ebbs," by Miss Nellie G. Fox. At the close of the programme Prof. Soldan presented the class to President Judson, of the School Board, who awarded the diplomas. In doing so Mr. Judson called attention to the various reasons why it had been so hard for graduates to obtain positions as teachers during the last few years, pointing out that it was mainly due to the hard times, which prevented resignations, the fact that the Board had not been building school houses, and also the trouble of providing for the white teachers formerly in colored schools, as well as those changed under the German-English system. Mr. Judson stated that with the return of prosperity, these causes had disappeared, and that the demand for teachers would soon be in excess of the supply. He also complimented the class, and said that they had fairly earned their education, by the substitute work they had done. The following is a list of the graduates:

Mary Barret, Clara B. Barton, Louise K. Billings, Rosa Lee Brady, Alice B. Ernst, Nellie Gertrude Fox, Maggie F Gallagher, Elizabeth Goodson, Alice W. Haydon, Martha L. Henke, Martha C. Kilgore, Clara Lamprecht, Nellie Maxon, Maggie McCormack, Katie Neenan, Mary Rutherford, Belle E. Troll, Jessie Carr Tyndall, May T. Verbarg, Mollie F. Wilson.

JUMPED FROM THE BRIDGE.

An Unknown Man Chooses the River Route into Eternity.

At 11:45 to-day an unknown man took the river route to eternity by jumping from the bridge. An old man crossing from the St. Louis side noticed the stranger sitting on a bench about a hundred feet from the water's edge on the St. Louis side and heard him muttering about jumping over. The old man quickened his pace to inform the bridge officer that patrols the center of the bridge, but before the officer could prevent the action below, and the man's head arose above the water once and was seen no more. His hat blew off during his descent to the water, and floated down stream, being watched by about twenty men and women from the upper road way of the bridge. The old man who notified the bridge officer saw the man crossing from St. Louis and described him as about five feet eight inches in height, light complected and shabbily dressed in summer clothes. When he arrived at the bench, from which he made the fatal jump, he looked in both directions, and, noticing a few pedestrians, returned to the bench, resting his head on his hands. When the pedestrians had passed him on both sides he suddenly jumped up and went over the railing without a word. Three men in a skiff pulled out from under the bridge, about five minutes after the man struck the water, but his hat was all remaining in sight.

A LOUD SPLASH WAS HEARD

EAST ST. LOUIS.

Michael Walsh, ex-Chief of Police, is seriously ill at his residence, on Missouri avenue.

The City Council will hold a special meeting to-night, Mayor McLean having issued a call yesterday evening.

The East St. Louis Land League will hold a meeting in the city Court Room to-morrow evening at 4 p. m., when the annual election of officers will take place.

Frank Fulner had a hearing in 'Squire Loug's Court this morning on a charge of being drunk and disorderly on the streets. A fine of $3 and costs was imposed. L. Myrick was up on the same charge and assessed the same amount.

Last night a game cock belonging to James Hallows was stolen from Theodore Mahn's saloon, on Summit avenue. The rooster was backed to fight to-morrow, which causes a suspicion to fall on some of the parties interested in the other bird.

The different railroad companies centering here are experiencing much trouble from petty thieves. Scarcely a night passes that not one or more cars, loaded with merchandise, are broken open, and some of the contents carried away. A well organized gang of car-breakers has existed for some time past, which the special police find it impossible to suppress. The nuisance has become so aggravating that some steps must be taken soon to bring the offenders to justice.

Shoe Store Failure.

Attachment suits were filed this morning against Ferdinand Cassel and William Dientsbach by Blacker, Sachs & Gerstle to recover $424 35, and by Todd, French & Blossom to recover $402 02, and by Ronan Bros. to recover $525 The Globe Printing Company likewise filed an attachment for the recovery of $412 17. Messrs. Cassel & Dientsbach have been conducting the Central Shoe Store at 815 North Fifth street. Yesterday the stock was turned over to Haggerty & Dewes, and the creditors are making a general scramble to save themselves. The assets are far short of the liabilities. The business was that of a retail shoe store, supplying the middle class demand.

Messrs. Haggerty & Dewes state that they advanced $3 500 on the Central shoe stock and propose to sell it. Messrs. Cassel & Dientsbach valued the stock at $6,500 and the creditors will probably get something, although it cannot be said how much the sale will realize. The sheriff is in possession for the attaching creditors. It is understood that Mr. Cassell was one of the latest applicants for adjudication under the old bankruptcy law and has been crippled in efforts to settle the composition effected with creditors.

A new musical club, called "The Mendelssohn Quintette Club" has been formed. It is composed of the best talent in the city, and they design giving the highest order of chamber music. This season will probably be spent in rehearsing, preparatory to next season, when they will give a series of subscription concerts upon the same plan as the Musical Union. The applications for membership are already so numerous that their success is assured. The members of the club are Mr. George Heerich, first violin; Mr. Dreyer, second violin; Mr. Leopold Schoen, viola, Mr. Carl Froelich, cello; Prof. A. G. Robyn, pianist. They will be assisted at their concerts next winter by the best vocalists that can be secured.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Patchen, of Lucas Place, gave one of the most delightful entertainments of the season, complimentary to their neice, Miss Lilly Gordon, a debutante of this winter. The elegant mansion, with its salons and parlors, were beautifully decorated with flowers and brilliantly lighted, and were thrown open for the reception of the guests at 5 o'clock, and until 8 there was a throng of elegantly attired married ladies with their husbands enjoying the scene. After that hour they dispersed, making way for the belles and the beaux. Among those present were: Mrs. L. W. Patterson, Miss Lilly Gordon, Mrs. F. O. Day, Mrs. Henry V. Lucas, Mrs. Gen. Kearney, Mrs. E. F. Wetzel, Mrs. W. Bascome, Mrs Mary Hewitt, Miss Almy Breckenridge, Miss Lulu Triplet, Miss Mary Blossom, Miss Cora Liggett and Miss Louise Scott.

The New York World contained the following recently. Mrs. Garrison is well known here, having been a Miss Letitia Randall: "Mrs. C. K. Garrison gave a luncheon party yesterday at her residence in Park avenue to one hundred ladies. Her spacious parlors had been transformed into a salle a manger, in which eighteen small round tables (each seating six ladies) were placed around the room. Each table was decorated with candelabras and wax candles, and flowers for each lady were so grouped in front of their places at the table as to form a centerpiece. The floral pieces for the ladies were in the designs of sleighs or slippers or tasteful trinkets. In addition a handsome bonbonniere was placed in each lady's plate, together with an elegant fan. An elaborate menu, expressed upon a decorated card, was prepared by Pinard, one feature of which was the serving of the Roman punch in small wheelbarrows made on spun sugar. Stube's orchestra, which was stationed in the main hall, hidden by a mound of palms, performed a choice selection of music during luncheon. Mrs. Garrison wore a robe of maroon velvet trimmed down the front and on the sleeves with duchesse lace. She was assisted in receiving by her sister and mother, Mrs. Randall. Among those present were the Baroness de Thomsen and Miss Thomsen, Mrs. Benjamin H. Bristow and Miss Bristow, Mrs. John Bigelow, Mrs. George S. Osgood, Mrs. L. M. Bates, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. John Sherwood, Mrs. Gunther, Mrs. Van Auken, Miss Wagstaff, Mrs. Dexter A. Hawkins, Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. James H. Stebbins, Mrs. R. G. Dun and Miss Dun, Mrs. Cotting, Miss Leary, Mrs. Albert Grant, Mrs. Linsley, Mrs. Gordon W. Burnham, Mrs. David Dowes, Mrs. F. P. James and Mrs. J. M. Hughes.

THE THOMPSON TIN WEDDING.

One of the most unique and elegant entertainments of the season, was the tin wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Thomson on Monday evening. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, arranged in every conceivable design, gifts from friends.

On entering the hall the first thing that met the eye was a large tin shield with the inscription upon it: "Annie Lou Hargadine and Wm. H. Thomson, 1872—1882. Over the parlor door was a large tin marriage bell; from Mr. and Mrs. Belt was a large double heart, with five smaller hearts suspended. In the smoking-room the chandelier was decorated with smilax and tin scrols; there was also a high tin hat for Mr. Thompson, and a tin derby, with feathers and flowers and ribbons complete for Mrs. Thompson. Upon the wall was a tin walking cane, presented by Mrs. Lackland, suspended by his wedding cravat. There were hundreds of tin presents of every conceivable form, most of them filled with flowers. The most beautiful was a tin ship about three feet long, filled with flowers, with a flag at each end bearing the initials of the pair. This was the gift of the clerks of the Boatmen's Savings Bank.

MONSTROUS!

Another Chapter in Insurance Wrecking.

How the De Soto Company was Wound up.

The Company Owed $3,700 and had Ample Money to pay it,

But the Lawyers, Referees, and Legal Expenses in Paying $3,700 Amounted to Nearly $13,000.

In the days of ancient Rome when justice mounted its dais and interpreted the law in the forum of the public street with the broad daylight of Heaven for a roof, receivers and referees were unknown. They belong essentially to institutions of modern progress and take prominence in the system for administration of the laws in this country. While vice and corruption clung often to the robes of the Roman magistracy, grievances received prompt ventilation and suitors at least were granted a speedy hearing in those days. It is more than probable that Virginius would have preferred the fate of his daughter to have been decided upon a prompt hearing than that it should abide the long sleep of the reference system which finds favor in modern times among courts and their officers, the limbs of the law. It is not clear from historical research that life insurance ever figured as a popular mode of provision for the families of prudent citizens in ancient Rome. If such institutions existed the trust was considerered

TOO SACRED TO BE ABUSED,

even by men of elastic conscience and the magistrates were never called upon to interfere with them. It would be difficult to judge of the popular effect in ancient times of the gang of receivers, referees, attorneys and other estate-eaters arraigned before a magistrate's rostrum by a throng of weeping widows and orphan children upon the charge of wrecking their funds for daily support. Popular sentiment would have revolted at the mere suggestion of a victim that the wreckers were "eminently respectable" citizens, friends of the court, its officers and appointees. The public evinced a strong interest in the doings of the ancient dispensers of the law and the firm voice of public opinion was promptly expressed when a denial of justice or a display of partiality became apparent. In these times grievances grind out daily through the press. The POST-DISPATCH for three years past has served the public as its watch dog, and in following up faithfully a mission of such benefit to the community, its attention has been naturally drawn to the elaborate system of defunct estate wrecking which has prevailed here the past decade with the sanction of the courts. Fewer exhibits of insurance estate management in the control of the court have excited greater indignation of late than the POST-DISPATCH figures quoted the other day from the reports of the St. Louis Mutual Life Insurance receiver, Capt. Silas Bent. This journal only speaks by the court records in these matters and it proposes to furnish some interesting extracts from the reports of the court's officers in various defunct insurance estates which will throw daylight upon the peculiar features of the modern system. A striking instance of it is afforded in the case of the

DE SOTO MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

This company was one of three, Atlas, Missouri Mutual and De Soto, which passed during Judge Gottschalk's term of bench service in Circuit Court No. 1 into the hands of a receiver, following a decree of dissolution. It had a most respectable parentage, for such men as the late James Lucas and William J. Lewis, C. P. Burr, John R. Lionberger and Thomas Tutt figured in its early directory. James H. Britton was likewise prominent in its fresh, young management, but he has since fallen by the wayside of local fame and idolatrous importance. The De Soto Insurance Company, however, started out under honorable management and promising auspices to a square, respectable business. It did fairly well for a time, but the life insurance craze soon possessed the country, and policy agents became as thick as sewing machine solicitors from the back lane farm to the avenue stone-front. The straight competition in life insurance business was outdone by the crooked, and the weaker went to the wall.

COMBINATIONS WERE FORMED IN ST. LOUIS to wipe out existing companies, ostensibly assume their risks and acquire their property, or rather that of the innocent policy-holding creditors. This sublime s stem was so successful that many companies were swallowed up without the knowledge of the parties chiefly interested. It appears of record, moreover, that some of the life insurance companies were even dissolved upon proceedings taken thereto without the knowledge or consent of the directory. In January, 1878, the Insurance Superintendent moved for

for the De Soto Company's assets and a decree of dissolution. The case was submitted on an agreed statement of facts, and Judge Gottschalk granted a decree perpetually enjoining the company, which had abandoned the field for years, from doing any further business. Theodore Heman was appointed receiver, with a bond of $15,000, and Joseph Shippen was appointed referee to pass upon claims presented against the De Soto estate. In December, 1870, the capital stock of this company was impaired to the extent of $42,328 18. A guarantee fund was then created by the stockholders on their own notes for an aggregate of $51,000, which was carried into the annual statement made to the State Insurance Department. In July, 1871, there was shown a liability of $189.940. The directors then contracted with the Republic Life Insurance Company, of Chicago, whereby the and delivered to the Chicago company all its assets except $150,000, less by $40,000 than the amount required by statute for the company to retain as against the claims of policy-holders.

On the 21st of July, 1871, the De Soto directors resolved to retire and distribute $51,000 of the $150,000 retained; leaving assets in possession of the company less than $100,000. The Republic Company of Chicago took up 850 of the De Soto policies and 500 policies were canceled for non-payment of premiums. In May, 1878, filed his first report of the De Soto estate, showing that only seven claims had been presented for allowance, an aggregate of $2,265 62.

The report of the referee for 1879 presented a total of claims against the estate of $5,569 17. August F. Harvey, a poor, honest actuary, was employed of $25 to investigate the policy claims against the De Soto estate, and he found fifteen outstanding policies representing an aggregate of $17,436 in amount and $4,5... ...

mium was occasioned by the court's injunction on the Columbia estate, in which, latterly, these policies were supposed to be reinsured. The Mound City Insurance Company acquired the DeSoto Company's policies upon purchase from the Republic Life of Chicago, and in that way the De Soto company's affairs passed into the hands of the St. Louis insurance syndicate. How the policy-holders' property was coolly transferred from the hands of one directory into another, covering a series of transfers and reinsurance, culminating in the extinction of the Columbia and the Life Association the unfortunate creditors are well able to say now that their eyes have been opened. When the Circuit Court decree issued from Judge Gottschalk's division wiping out the De Soto Company There were a few policies outstabding

REPRESENTING ABOUT $3,700!

That was the showing of the liabilities as against the absorbed special deposit asset fund of $100,000 in the hands of the insurance department. To the inexperienced eye it may appear strange that a company many years since out of business and owing a mere handful of dollars with $100,000 secured to meet its debts should require all the expensive machinery of attorneys to represent the state department with a view to dissolution; a receiver to hold ten notes of the special deposit for security; a referee to pass upon less than a score of claims and attorneys to represent those officers. Men on the bench, however, are but human after all. There are relatives and friends to provide a snug measure of patronage for and any number of ex-judges who are thirsting for fees on a fat thing.

THE LEGAL EXPENSE

of dissolving the De Soto Company, which only owed $3,700, was about $1,000, and the aggregate of "expenses" allowed by the court since dissolution will not fall short of $13,000! The respectable members of the DeSoto directory in its early days were so surprised to hear that the court was invoked to dissolve the company that they offered to pay all the liabilities. But for the mazy condition of things following the transfers and re-insurance, no court could have rendered a decree of dissolution.

THE QUESTION HAS BEEN ASKED

within the past few days in the POST-DISPATCH why a reference is considered necessary in insurance wrecks. No actual necessity was shown in the De Soto case and in the larger estates it is urged that the five judges of the Circuit Court have little enough to occupy their time in these days of litigation's lull. Their salaries of $5,500 each are earned for about four days' sitting each week during seven months of the year. It is thought that thousands of dollars might be saved to policy-holders by the court's personal attention to insurance estates one day each week of the winter term.

THE $100,000 of special securities with the Insurance Department for the De Soto Mutual Life Insurance Company, represented by ten notes, were withdrawn by the officers of the Mound City Life Insurance Company, and were substituted by notes of the Mound City Life, secured by deeds of trust on the Life Insurance Building, Sixth and Locust streets. Thus it happened that the De Soto's creditors' security, after the swamping process, depended upon the proceeds from the sale of that building. The De Soto special deposit notes, withdrawn August 9, 1875, were as follows:

C. H. Wyman, 1 note, $6,375; J. B. Eads, $8,500; Joseph Bogy, $21,250; J. H. Britton, $4,250; John Hogan, $20,000; J. B. Johnson, $9,000; D. A January, $10,000; J. C. McCoy, $11,400; J. B. Goff, $3,500; J. R. Shepley, $8,000; C. G. McHatton, $4,650.

THE LAST REPORT OF THE RECEIVER, filed September 30, 1881, shows the receipts and disbursements from January 19, 1878, to date, except the special fund account for payment of policy claims.

The receiver's expense account, which was allowed by the court, includes an item of $100 each month, worded, "General expense, receiver." The receipts footed up $9,527 05, and the expenses $9,658 42.

Of the foregoing allowances some of the payments have not been made, as they are not chargeable to the special fund. All the policy holders of this company have been paid in full.

The De Soto's share of the proceeds of sale of the Life Insurance Building was about $53,000. Out of this the policy holders' claims, amounting to $5,596 12, were paid and the expenses of liquidation. The balance was turned over to the Missouri and St. Louis Mutual funds.

How a Brave Man Died.

his life in a vain effort to save—his overcoat! His thorough knowledge of the ins and outs of the theater enabled him to enter it again and again, each time with impunity and success, in his heroic purpose, while the conflagration was raging. He had just conveyed an insensible woman from one of the lobbies into the balcony overlooking the Hess-Gasse, when he suddenly remembered that he had left his surtout hanging from a peg close to the exit from the third gallery, in which part of the house he had been seated when the fire broke out, and forthwith resolved to recover it. One of his subordinates entreated him to forego so perilous an enterprise, and even endeavored to keep him back by main force. But Samek, an extremely powerful man, shook him off, exclaiming, "Nothing can happen to me, for I know the house as well as I know my own pocket," and vanished into the smoke, never more to emerge thence alive. Thus perished the head purveyor of applause to the ill-fated Ring Theater, on the scene of his nightly labors. He died for a coat, it is true; but not until he had proved himself a hero in a better cause than that for which he threw away his life.

Met His Match.

From the Shoe and Leather Reporter.

The only man who ever beat a nitroglycerine explosion after it was once started is John McCleary, of Pennsylvania. He saw what was coming and ran. His coat-tail was cut off and his back was somewhat scratched. He jumped, with some assistance from behind, about a hundred feet, and continued running until he dropped from fatigue. He kept ahead of the flying fragments just as Baron Munchausen kept ahead of the rain, and there may be a lie about it somewhere also. This is something akin to the story which old Col. Reed, of Acton, Mass., relates, and maintains that he was an eye-witness of the circumstance. One of the powder-houses on the bank of the stream below Concord blew up, (as they are in the habit of doing on an average of two or three times a year,) and sent a man flying through the air, throwing him completely over a round-top hill. He was accompanied in his terrible flight by an instrument—probably something sharper than the ordinary hoe used in the manipulation of saltpetre—which, just before he landed, cut him slick in twain through the waist. The legs walked off for a distance of several yards, and the trunk, pointing its index finger toward the retreating saddle, exclaimed; "See there!" a bystander, who didn't seem to take much stock, so to speak, in the Colonel's story, related what occured in his saw mill. Two dogs were fighting. When the encounter became fiercest they got directly in front of the saw, on the carriage, which was slowly but surely moving up to the killing point. They seemed to be in a death-struggle, when one of them was cut completely in two. Now, it is a well-known proposition that every dog has four legs, but no dog has his fore legs behind: and, however that may be, the two hind legs of this particular dog ran away, while the two fore legs remained and whipped the other dog. Col Reed simply said, "If I told such a lie as that I'd have no hopes of heaven!"

FACTS ABOUT UMBRELLAS.

Antiquarians say that the umbrella was invented shortly after the flood, and has been the least improved upon of all appliances for human comfort, the shape being now as it was in those youthful days of the world. An umbrella is much like a pigeon as to the question of possession—the last one who gets it owns it. The following facts about umbrellas—especially the last one—may serve every reader a splendid purpose sooner or later: To place your umbrella in a rack indicates that it is about to change owners. An umbrella carried over a woman, the man getting nothing but drippings of the rain, indicates courtship. When the man has the umbrella and the woman the drippings, it indicates marriage. To carry it at right angles under your arm signifies that an eye is to be lost by the man who follows you. To put a cotton umbrella by the side of a nice silk one signifies that "exchange is no robbery." To lend an umbrella signifies that "I am a fool." To carry an umbrella just high enough to tear out men eyes and knock off men's hats, signifies "I am a woman." To go without an umbrella in a rain-storm shows I am sure of getting rheumatism, and will have to use ST. JACOBS OIL to get well." To keep a fine umbrella for your own use and a bottle of ST. JACOBS OIL always in the house, in case of rheumatism or accident, would signify that you are real philosopher.

The following communication to the editor of the Salem (Mass.) Register shows how an artist treated his visitor: "I would have accepted your kind invitation to visit you in your new quarters with pleasure before this had not my old enemy, Mr. Rheumatism, pounced on me so suddenly. He arrived last Friday, and, without stopping to send up his card, rushed in and grasped me by the hand with such a grip that in a few hours my hand and wrist were so badly swollen and painful that I felt as though one of Mr. Hatch's coal teams had run over me. Mr. Rheumatism has been a constant visitor of mine for several years; he always swells and put on a great many airs, making himself at home, devouring my substance and leaving me poor in flesh and pocket. Last winter he came and stayed two months. I then decided that the next time he came I would change his diet. I was somewhat at a loss what to feed him with, but finally concluded to give him three square meals a day of ST. JACOBS OIL, morning, noon and night. This fare he is disgusted with, and is packing up his trunk and will leave by to-morrow or next day; says he cannot stop any longer, as he has pressing business elsewhere. He is a treacherous fellow, and he pretends visiting some of our Salem friends; if he does, just give him the same fare that I did, and he won't stop long ... LAFAVOUR.

BOSTON LETTER.

The Jolly Plumber—Points About Shop-Girls—Notes

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, January 24, 1882.—This is the season when the happy family-man drops in at the plumber's on his way down town, and looks pensively at that functionary of merit and of importance in our modern civilization.

"Frozen up?" says the F. of M. and I., in blithe tones.

A positively silent nod from the H. F. M. is the all-sufficient reply.

"All right," comes cheerily again. "I'll look in as soon as I can," and the caller winds his horse-car way to his place of daily business, and takes care to be much too busy at noon to go home to dinner.

As for the woes that the happy family woman experiences, before the plumber looks in, while he is looking in—if he comes at all, which ten to one he doesn't—and after he has looked in,—let us not expatiate too mournfully. Every dweller in a city of modern improvements knows what it is to go peacefully to bed at night only to rise in the morning to find that no water flows when the faucet in the bath-room is turned. Then such a skurrying down to the kitchen, and such a drawing of all the water in the hot water tank, and such a pouring of it onto the pipes in the vain hope of thawing them out! Such a hateful breakfast, and such despairing looks at the washtubs wherein the clothes were "put to soak" over night! Such invasions of Goths and Vandals of the plumber tribe and such a tearing up of floors and a general family earthquake! You who don't live in a "modern improved" city think you can afford to crow, but you haven't breath to crow very loudly while you are out in the freezing weather filling pails at the pumps in your back yard, so be easy with yourself.

I learned something the other day quite accidentally, which went far to explain how the many good-looking shop girls—sales-ladies, I mean—can live and dress as comfortably as they do on such ridiculously small salaries. I have heard so often that in most of the establishments where all kinds of small wares are sold, and where almost countless girls stand behind the counters, the salaries are but from $4 to $6 per week for ordinary girls, that I have often wondered how they could be so universally bright and polite, neat and happy looking. For as to believing the lies, to which currency is frequently given, that these girls supplement their hard, honest work by harder and dishonest work in order to buy fine clothes, I never yet so discounted reason. If I ever suspect a woman at all—which I am very slow to do—of not being what she seems, it is she who lives at her ease, without "visible means of support," who "toils not, neither does she spin," but who is nevertheless arrayed in the glory of a modern Solomon—or of one of his wives. No proof can be surer of a girl's honesty than that she works hard all day.

Well, I was looking at Hamburg embroi-... at one of those great establishments ...er day, when I noticed that a slight ...ce of opinion had arisen between a ...er, a pretty girl of eighteen, who was ...sing volubly to her mother on the sub... the salesgirl, another pretty girl of ...n, whose cheeks had flamed up, and ...ark eyes shot silent sparks at the girl ... the counter, but who said nothing. ...erence turned out to be a mere mis...anding, which the elder lady quietly ...t, but the girl behind the counter said no... word till the customers had left, when she turned to a companion and said:

"Give me a white mark! I had good chance to be saucy, but I resisted the temptation."

"I'll give you a cooky," laughed the other; but the flame did'nt die out of the girl's cheek, and I remarked:

"I should think it had paid you, for it's a satisfaction to prove one'sself the superior of another."

"If everybody hated Hamburg as I do, nobody would buy it," half muttered the girl a moment later. "I don't belong in this department anyhow, and if the regular girl does'nt come back soon I won't stay.'"

"Must wait a little while, dear," said the next girl soothingly, while, my curiosity having arisen, I asked (I was "matching patterns" all this time);

"What makes you hates it so?"

"I hate it anyway. I won't wear it and hate to touch it. Besides it is such poor business. Of course eyeryone wants to be suited, and so they hunt and hunt, and it takes perhaps two hours to make a fifty-cent sale, while you could sell dollars and dollars' worth in half the time in other departments."

"Well, I don't see what you care, so long as your salary is paid,"

"Ah—but the commission."

"Oh—I did'nt know that you received commissions on your sales."

"Yes, indeed, and frequently they amount to more than our salaries. In a decent department, when we have good weather, a girl can make $10 or $12 per week easily."

Now, it seems to me that this is a most excellent arrangement on most accounts, for it gives each girl an actual and positive interest in furthering her employer's interests. There is something tangible in the knowledge that each dollar taken means just so much to herself, in addition to that of which she is sure in case that no sale is made at all. There is only one danger; that of added impatience and perhaps ill-nature, if the customer decides not to buy. But I'm willing for one to take my chances on that; I think I can snub a salesgirl worse than she can snub me, if it comes to that.

Writing as I did a few paragraphs back, reminds me that there was a time in Boston, less than a quarter of a century ago, when to stand behind the counter of a store was actually to brand the brow of a girl with shame—real or supposed—when it seemed a regularly accepted doctrine that the few women who occupied such positions were the mistresses of their employers. I was talking recently with a very bright and successful little woman, of 40—though looking 30—who is now in good business for herself, but who, twenty years ago, when her father met with a financial misfortune which reduced him from affluence to very straightened circumstances, resolved to aid him by any means in her power, and, to the shuddering horror of relatives and friends, she took a position in a circulating library. But the tone of public opinion may be estimated from the fact that, on taking this step, this girl felt it due to her own sense of pride and honor to quietly drop all her old friends in order not to give them the chance to drop her, a course which she resolutely adopted and acted on until she was brought back from her self-isolated position by the energetic action of her pastor, Bishop ——, and his daughter, who went into the store one day, insisted on a recognition, and almost perforce took the girl to their house and among old friends, and by their example and warm espousal of her cause made pleasant and easy the path which she had expected to find full of thorns, relieved only by the one sweet blossom, duty.

The Suffragists claim that the great change of public sentiment during the past twenty-five years as to women's work and workingwomen is due to the agitation of "their cause." If they are right, all honor to the cause and long may it wave; for the evils of universal suffrage, were it granted, could never equal the terrible evil of holding women in a position where, to be respectable, they must, at all events, be supported by some man, husband or father or brother, no matter ... hard it be on the man or how demoraliz... ...man.

est are just announced. The most noticeable is the project of holding a grand reunion of the members of the Peace Festival chorus of 1872, in May next, in the great hall of the Charitable Mechanics' Building, which is so admirably suited for the purpose. The impetus which was given to music throughout New England by the festival can only be estimated by comparing the vastly greater number of local choral societies since that time, the superior work done, and the many popular musical conventions. It is said that the project of such a reunion, with a week of concerts, has already met great favor throughout New England, and that its success is sure if only the names of Eben Tourjee and P. S. Gilmore can be secured as the responsible musical leaders in the scheme. To quote from the Sunday Herald:—"Mr. Tourjee's intimate acquaintance with the musical abilities of the several localities, together with his genius as an organizer, with Mr. Gilmore's reliable enthusiasm, has proved equal to grand and successful efforts in the past, the surest guarantee for success in the future."

We also hope to have a series of Patti concerts at popular prices in the Mechanics' Hall, when that diva returns from her tour in the South and West, and there is even hope that we may have a grand opera season, by the combination Strakosch and Abbey, thus giving us both Gerster and Patti. Ah! that would bring down the house inded!

PATTI seems to combine business with pleasure in this country, the pleasure consisting in furnishing certificates of good character and moral worth to every piano manufacturer who applies for one. There are five leading piano firms in this country and three in Europe who have letters from the divine ADELINA declaring that out of all the instruments she has used theirs is so much ahead that no comparison with the others can be made. The diva may yet abandon the stage for the patent medicine business.

MR. JAY GOULD, with his usual dash, has proceeded to take the reins of his new San Francisco railway. He was elected a Director yesterday and his men are being placed in charge all along the line. Mr. GOULD now controls every one of our great Western and Southern connections and in conjunction with HUNTINGTON, holds the key of both our Pacific Coast lines. It wouldn't be a bad idea for the citizens of St. Louis to meet occasionally and offer up a sacrifice to the Moloch of Railways, by way of propitiating him. He might take it into his head some day to sit down on us.

THE Street Commissioner, Mr. TURNER, laments in a style that is quite harrowing that his appropriations for street repairs are not large enough. Since April last he has dumped 40,000 loads of macadam on the streets, and he thinks that he ought to have had 80,000. The result would have been practically the same. Mr. TURNER might as well dump ashes into the sea as to cover the streets of St. Louis with rotten limestone in the hope of making good thoroughfares. Our system is an infamous one, and it is time to stop this horrible waste of money for the benefit of the macadam ring. We sprinkle broken stone on the street to-day. It is ground into powder before a week. A shower of rain slacks the lime and our streets are converted into mortar beds. There isn't a city in Christendom that suffers from mud and dust as we do. If we have a municipal statesman who combines the genius of a NAPOLEON with the audacity of Boss TWEED, now is the time for him to come to the rescue of the city.

ON "SOCIETY" NEWS. X

Several correspondents have written to us lately wanting to know why, in spite of the well defined antagonism of this paper towards social shams and bogus aristocrats, the society column, with its exciting description of Miss BEESWAX'S gowns and Miss ADDLEHOOF'S bunions, is published week after week. There is an apparent contradiction in this, but an explanation is very easy. It is to be regretted, but there are certain women called ladies, in St. Louis, who are never happy until their names appear in print. It is a mania with them, a sort of advertising-hunger, to coin a word, which can only be satisfied by a free diet of type. Suppose Miss BRINDLE'S papa agrees to give her a party. Before her dearest friends know of it the newspapers have been notified, the society reporters have been hunted up and a promise extracted that they will be present, and then with a clear conscience Miss BRINDLE invites her friends. These friends know Miss BRINDLE'S familiarity with the press and come, certain that next Saturday's and Sunday's papers will record their names and toilettes and hence send them echoing down the trump of fame. No one but the male or female society reporter knows the device which some "society belles" employ to secure publication. BARNUM and St. Jacobs Oil fade into insignificance before the tact of some of our belles. Certainly this is to be regretted. The taste for newspaper mention is a vulgar one, and the effort of the real lady would be towards keeping her name out of the papers rather than getting it in. The female desire for publicity is not one of the hopeful signs of the times. True womanhood despises the present fashion, and leaves it to those who know no better. But our mission is to publish a newspaper first and to correct a vitiated taste is difficult; we print what the people want to read, and are not committed to the vulgarity of the society column any more than to the criminality of the police report. We regret that the standard of society or taste should be so peculiar. But the POST-DISPATCH is, before everything, a newspaper containing matter for every one, to read—rich or poor, high or low, modest or vain, virtuous or vulgar; and the society column is read thoroughly and exhaustively by a certain class, and probably a very large class of persons. The chances are that at least many will send away marked copies, calling attention to the fact that their blue tarletan was an event of such grave importance in St. Louis, that a newspaper gave it two lines of space. Let the galled jade wince, our withers are unwrung. Because we chronicle a murder or a robbery, that does not make the paper a cut-throat or a burglar; because the small beer of a small society is recorded, it must not be argued that the editor of the POST-DISPATCH approves of the public demand for this column of inanities. The cook does not approve or partake of every rich, foolish dish he prepares for others. The physician does not take the medicine demanded by the patient. Even the clergyman preaches his sermon with view to please his congregation. We make a paper for tens of thousands of people rather than the select few. We must give the news—all the news—whether it is about a prize fight or society shams—whether about hanging or a wedding. News brings circu... on ... ation brings advertise-...

pay, while we pay for the society news. Our motto is: The news, all the news, always the news.

THE NEXT BATTLE.

The present House of Representatives is composed of 293 members. Under the new census a new apportionment is to be made As it concerns the House alone, any measure that passes that body is certain to have the assent of the Senate and the Executive. The House Committee has already agreed upon a new apportionment. It is almost certain to pass and become a law. If it does the total membership will be increased from 293 to 320 members. One of these twenty-seven new members will come from Missouri. As the Legislature does not meet in this State this year, that Congressman will be elected in the State at large.

Thus it will be seen that, though the term of the Governor and nearly all the State officers does not expire till 1884, there is certain to be a general election in this State this fall. For not alone this Congressman at large, but also a successor to Judge Sherwood, of the Supreme Court, a Railroad Commissioner and a State Superintendent of Public Schools, will have to be chosen by the people. This, of course, is the State ticket alone. But, besides this, there will have to be chosen thirteen Congressmen in the different districts, an entire legislature and hundreds of minor local officials.

It is our opinion, that though as yet little or nothing is said about this election, it will be one of the most interesting and remarkable contests ever fought in the politics of Missouri. There are many reasons for the belief, too, that this contest will commence in a very few months.

The returns of the last election show the following division of parties:

Crittenden, Democratic		207,670
Dyer, Republican	153,636
Brown, Greenbacker	36,340
Total opposition		189,976
Democratic majority		17,694

Thus it will be seen that a change of 9,000 voters would have turned the State even last fall if the opposition had been united.

The Democratic party of this State is unquestionably more than 9,000 votes weaker this year than in the year of HANCOCK. The only question, therefore, is, can the Republicans and Greenbackers be united?

Coalitions in this state have succeeded before; yet, as a rule, they are difficult. If, for instance, the opposition should accept the leadership of such men as CRISP or of foolish Greenbackers the Democrats would have an easy victory. But under proper management and with good candidates the Democrats could certainly be defeated.

In any event we predict a very lively political campaign for this fall—one in which the administration will take as great an interest as it did in Virginia. And if the Democrats do not look out very carefully and stop quarrelling and talking like idiots—such for instance as running BILL MORRISON for the Presidency—they will find out the difference between 1880 and 1882, the difference between an ordinary State election and one in which the national Administration, under the lead of ARTHUR and FILLEY and with all the resources of their party, take an active part.

We were laughed at when, in 1880, we predicted that the Democrats would lose five seats in Congress. Perhaps our Democratic friends will laugh again when we tell them that they have a fair chance of losing the State this fall. Let them look out before it is too late.

THE Springfield, Mass., Republican, one of the ablest, most independent and honest newspapers in the country, presents Mr. EADS' Ship Railway scheme in the following moderate but favorable manner:

Mr. Eads publishes a rather impressive indorsement of his plan foa a ship railway across the Isthmus of Tehauntepec in the shape of a pamphlet containing letters from over thirty leading American and English civil engineers declaring the scheme to be entirely practicable. The list includes W. S. Smith, who has charge of the New York and Jersey City tunnel, Hart and Fernald, United States naval contractors, Barnaby, chief constructor of the British Navy, and others of equal authority. Supposing that an equal number of equally eminent men could easily be found to express contrary opinions, still the fact that so many engineers of repute take the affirmative side of the question is entitled to great weight. As to the letters themselves the feature that most strikes a layman is the recital of things already accomplished in the line. Very large ships are now lifted out of the water, high and dry, for repairs, without the least injury, and are also hauled out on cars in principal the same as those proposed by Eads, and in some cases have been carried safely for a considerable distance on wheels, from one body of water to another.

FOR the last three days a considerable part of the cable news from the Old World has been taken up with recording suicides committed in consequence of the panic caused by the break in Union Generale stock. It is only a few years since the late Baron ROTHSCHILD died, chiefly, it is said, from vexation over the great financial defeat inflicted upon him by this same Union Generale. It has been a fatal enterprise from the beginning. It will be very unpleasant tidings for the Catholics throughout the world to know that the Pope will lose an enormous amount of money, the accumulations of several years of "Peter's Pence," which is in the hands of the Union. We had some Union Generals here during the war who managed to kill off a good many people, but this French institution seems to be about as severe on human life as one of SCHENCK'S railway charges on a masked battery.

GAMBETTA is the ablest leader in France and one of the earliest and best friends of the Republic. The ...ptness with which he has been hurle... power ... the Assembly of Republicanism. GAMBETTA'S fierce advocacy of the scrutin de liste was held to be a menace against the people and a step toward a dictatorship. He was very promptly invited to resign the Premiership, which he did, and DE FREYCINET will proceed to organize a new Cabinet fresh from the people. All this while Mr. BISMARCK is standing up in the German Reichstag, like a Siberian blood-hound, bellowing out the abhorrent doctrine of absolutism and telling the representatives of the people that the King rules and reigns in Germany.

SOME of our readers may perhaps remember CHARLES GREEN. Well, CHARLES has indignantly spurned all propositions looking to an amicable adjustment of the Fair Association difficulties. He is the principal owner of the Fair. He has just re-elected himself to the Presidency, and he proposes to run the show to suit himself. The report that he would resign as soon as his Returning Board vindicated him with a re-election is now known to have been a stupid joke. It is understood that the Rump Directory will soon increase the coleopterous GREEN'S salary to $15,000 a year by way of compensating him for the wear and tear of his intellect.

SCAFFOLD SAINTS.

Modern Religion and Its Method of Dealing With Murderers.

ST. LOUIS, January 24.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Since the recent judicial exit of Erb, Baber, Kotovsky, Ward and Ellis I have noticed in your columns more than one sharp and well-discerned editorial allusion to the peculiar religious features which characterized the last hours of these criminals. In this, as in other things, the POST-DISPATCH has had the moral courage to put popular sentiment in unmistakable language; a courage in which its contemporaries are, not unfrequently, painfully lacking. It is certainly time for the public press, that mightiest of human forces, to come to the rescue of reason, righteousness and the welfare of the community in this matter, even though in so doing it provokes the wrath and indignation of many good people and earns for itself the title of "Infidel." The theory that a murderer, after conviction and sentence—for the alleged "conversion" seldom occurs before—can by simply expressing sorrow and regret for the bloody deed, and declaring belief in certain theological dogmas, literally step from the scaffold into the eternal felicity of heaven, is, in the opinion of the vast majority of intelligent and unprejudiced persons, a ghastly burlesque on pure religion. Take the present case as an illustration. Setting Erb aside, who, I believe, was less pronounced in his sanctification than the rest, here we have four men, who deliberately killed, between them, four women and one man. According to the orthodox idea, duly drilled into and ardently accepted by them, they were swung by the hangman's rope into the mansions of the blessed, there to remain forever more. Meanwhile, their victims, according to the same idea, having been "cut off in their sins," with no opportunity of repentance and conversion, are permanently located in the dungeons of the damned! The murderers transformed into angels; the murdered into devils! In the course of a somewhat extensive reading in that interesting department, I have never found any religion, ancient or modern, civilized or barbarous, which taught, or even so much as suggested, such a doctrine—except that phase of Christianity under discussion. All of the so-called heathen religions persistently and emphatically declare that punishment awaits the guilty in the next world; not necessarily everlasting, but lasting long enough to satisfy the demands of retributive justice and cleanse the sin-stained soul. A Buddhist, a Mahomedan, or even an African fetich-worshipper, would reject with horror and amazement the creed which teaches otherwise—the creed which sends Baber, Kotovsky, Ellis and Ward to paradise, and those whom they butchered to perdition.

But there is something worse than shameless inconsistency and outrageous injustice involved in this doctrine. I am convinced that homicide, already superabundant, is increased and multiplied by it. When to the chances of the law's delays and loop holes, commutation of the capital sentence, and the possibility of jail-breaking, is added the certainty—vouched for by otherwise respectable clergymen—that, if "worst comes to worst," repentance ... conversion in the ... dency. Dr. Boyd and his pious co-laborers ought to know, must know, that the so-called "triumph of death," accompanied by "assurance of a blessed immortality," of Baber, Kotovsky, Ellis and Ward, do not tend to diminish the alarming growth of the crime for which they suffered—rather the reverse. And I give these well meaning gentlemen credit for too much sense to charge them with believing what they so industriously preached to these unfortunate criminals. That they think they believe it, I do not for a moment doubt; but the belief would prove a delusion if submitted to practical test. If, the instant the trap was sprung, the four murderers had been unconditionally pardoned, would Dr. Boyd and his pious co laborers have treated them as redeemed and almost glorified saints? Would they have been permitted, except after long probation, to enjoy membership in Dr. Boyd's church, or speak in the prayer meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association? The question carries its own answer. Yet if prudence as well as decency would have demanded such probation for them on earth, by what right, recognized in the high court of common sense, did Dr. Boyd and his colleagues guarantee Baber, Kotovsky, Ward and Ellis free and full admission into heaven without probation?

But this communication is already too long. Permit me to again thank you for exposing, in characteristic and effective fashion, a deeply rooted and dangerous error; and to express the hope that, at no distant day, this error will be thoroughly eradicated from the public mind. W.

Exchange Membership.

ST. LOUIS, January 27, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Why is it that the Globe-Democrat tries on all possible occasions to depreciate the value of Merchants' Exchange memberships? Only a short time ago it contained quite an article devoted to the effort of proving that certificates of membership could soon be bought much cheaper, one of the reasons advanced—with several others of equal force—being that many members would rather sell than pay their dues for 1882. And now, in Thursday's issue, we find the following:

"Speculators in memberships have not lost all hope in high prices, and come out again with a petition to the directors to increase the price of certificates to $2,500. The present price is $500, and certificates can be purchased, paid up, for $275 and $300. It might be just as well for these malcontents to subside, and lose no more precious time striving to create a fictitious value for certificates which cannot be governed by any other influence than supply and demand. There are too many offered for sale, and no change in the initiation fee would augment the value of the certificates."

Now, while it is a fact that the price of certificates will be governed by the supply and demand, the writer of the above article is very much off when he says that an increase in the price of initiation would not change their value. If the initiation fee was put at $2,500 it would be practically limiting the membership to its present number, for no one, "at least for several years," would pay that amount to become a member. Hence any one desiring to become such would be obliged to buy of some one now holding a membership, and this could certainly operate in no other way than to increase their value. Should judge the writer is one of those several fellows with a "long head," who wouldn't at the $100 rate because they knew they could soon be bought for less. Clerks had bought with borrowed money, and would be obliged to sell out and all that, but having "got left" in his calculations and the present price being no doubt beyond his reach, he has made up his mind that they don't amount to much anyway.

My advice to him is that if he can pick up one of the $275 or $300 cerficates he mentions he had better do it, for if he waits until the initation fee is put at $2,500, he will pay a much higher price if he gets one. I question if a membership could now be bought for $400, and the man who sells for that will be looking for some one to kick him in less than twelve months. Yours,

X. Y. Z.

A Damaged Sidewalk.

ST. LOUIS, January 27, 1882.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your correspondent, "E. P." in the issue of the 25th current, complaining of a broken sidewalk "east side of Elliot avenue, about 150 feet north of Cass avenue," must have made a mistake in location. I have had an examination made and the report is, a "small break" of about 4x6 feet, instead of "at least 40 feet of sidewalk in a very demoralized condition." This has been reported and will be repaired as soon as the weather permits.

Immediate attention is given to any complaints regarding sidewalk pavements, if directed to the proper quarter—the Street Department. SIDEWALK INSPECTOR.

"THE OLD GUARD."

Bronze Medals Ordered By the Stalwarts,

To Commemorate and Revive the Memories of the Solid Grant Phalanx.

Don Cameron's Idea—Conkling's Criticism on the Profile.

The Medals to be Sent to Chauncey I. Filley at Washington for Distribution.

Full Description of the Stalwart Trophies—Who Will get Them—The Engraving Done in St. Louis.

Shortly after the close of the National Republican Convention, which nominated Garfield at Chicago, in June, 1880, it was whispered that the Grant men were preparing to perpetuate the event in some lasting manner. The convention was principally remarkable for the stand made by the delegates who supported Grant, the stalwart phalanx casting a solid ballot, which wavered from 302 to 313 votes for Ulysses S. thirty-six times in succession. It was suggested that perhaps a medal might be struck, but nothing definite was known about the matter, and it is now supposed that the scheme for perpetuating the fight had been forgotten. That this is not the case the POST-DISPATCH is able to assure the public, as the work is now being finished in this city. A reporter dropped into the office of Mr. J. M. Kershaw, the engraver at 610 Pine street, on private business yesterday, and found that gentleman working away at a handsome bronze medal, which bore upon one side a splendid head of Gen. Grant. The reporter's curiosity was at once aroused. Mr. Kershaw was very reluctant to talk upon the subject. To questions he replied that he did not think that he should say anything, as the mementoes were not entirely done, etc. After considerable curiosity he consented to show one of them. The trophies are of bronze and are executed in the highest style of the art, Mr. Kershaw having been selected for the work, over many competitors, on account of his skill and ability in his profession. After much coaxing, he consented to let the POST-DISPATCH reporter handle one of them, saying as he did so, "You are the first man save myself who has ever had the privilege."

THE MEDALS

The medals are of bronze, perfectly round, ¾ inches in diameter, 3-16 of an inch thick, and weighs nearly a pound. The design and general appearance indicate perfect skill and workmanship.

THE FACE.

On the center of the face is a profile head of Gen. Grant, which is a perfect likeness. Underneath and extending partially around the head, is a wreath of laurel and oak leaves, the materials of a conquerers crown among the ancients. Around this is a slightly raised circle, outside of which is the record of the Grant ballots arranged in a complete circle, the number of each ballot and the vote cast being set down in a separate space. The record begins at the exact center of the bottom when the medal is held in its proper position and reads as follows:

1st (ballot) 304 (votes); 2nd, 305; 3d, 305; 4th, 305; 5th, 305; 6th, 305; 7th, 305; 8th, 306; 9th, 306; 10th, 305; 11th, 305; 12th, 304; 13th, 305; 14th, 305; 15th, 306; 16th, 306; 17th, 303; 18th, 305; 19th, 305; 20th, 306; 21st, 305; 22d, 305; 23d, 304; 24th, 305; 25th, 302; 26th, 303; 27th, 306; 28th, 307; 29th, 305; 30th, 307; 31st, 308; 32d, 309; 33d, 309; 34th, 312; 35th, 313; 36th, 306.

Between the first and thirty-sixth ballots, which meet at the bottom of the ring, a star is engraved. After the seventeenth, which reaches the point diametrically opposite the star, the numbers reverse. So that the figures can all be read without turning the medal around. Outside the record and along the rim a wreath of fleur-de-lis is handsomely worked, completing the face.

THE REVERSE SIDE.

The reverse side is tasteful and chaste. Inscribed in the center circle are these words arranged in the following manner:

COMMEMORATIVE
THIRTY-SIX BALLOTS
of
for
ULYSSES S. GRANT
FOR PRESIDENT.
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.
CHICAGO, JUNE, 1880.

All the lines are straight, save the first and last, which curve gracefully in parallel with the edge. Under the last the name of a member of "The Old Guard" is inscribed. Surrounding the lettering is a simple yet handsome border, completing the reverse side. At the center of the top is a hole in which to place a ribbon. The medal, altogether, is as handsome a bit of engraving as has ever been done.

WHAT THE ENGRAVER SAYS.

"Yes," said Mr. Kershaw, as he cast his eye over the hundreds of shining disks, now exposed; "they are very pretty, and they cost me many anxious hours of labor."

"How long have you been working at them?"

"Oh, considerably more than a year. The idea first originated with Don Cameron, of Pennsylvania, I believe, about two months after the Chicago Convention. He talked it over with Roscoe Conkling and Chauncy I. Filley. The work was left to the latter. Soon after, I was applied to about the engraving. I sent in a design and it was adopted. The medals were originally intended to be finished last spring, but I had bad luck, and broke three dies in succession."

"The profile is very artistic," suggested the reporter.

"Yes, I had great trouble getting it. Two pictures were sent me first, but I did not exactly like them, and I afterwards sent on and procured another. From the three I secured the head. The gentlemen I mentioned had also several cameos of Gen. Grant, taken when he was abroad. I had much trouble in getting what is called a positive profile. The artists all seem to desire to slant the face so as to show the other eye, and thus destroy the profile. Some engravers would have done that head in Roman style, with drapery enveloping the neck and lower edged. I preferred this form, showing part of the coat, the collar and necktie, and my design pleased the gentlemen interested very much."

"How many medals have you made?"

"Three hundred and thirty in all. Besides the delegates, Gen. Grant wants a few, and Messrs. Cameron and Conkling also desire some. I th... that after these are issued there will be a widespread desire for more, ... be ordered."

"Well, they are worth at least $4 apiece. I lost considerable money on the contract and was not helped any by the bad luck I mentioned, but you need not say that.

"When will they be finished?"

"Towards the latter part of next week. I have orders to immediately send them to Mr. Filley at Washington, who will have charge of the distribution. Little remains to be done except to engrave the names of the persons who will receive them, and that will not take long. It is in contemplation to have the head of the medals engraved on letter paper to be sent along with these souvenirs."

Mr. Kershaw gave this information reluctantly, and only spoke because, if the matter was going to be published, he wanted to see it put right.

CONKLING'S CRITICISM.

The reporter met a representative Republican politician of the city, and asked him about the medals. The gentleman was a delegate to Chicago, is a strong friend of Mr. Filley and voted for Grant just thirty-six times at the convention.

"Yes," said he, "I believe they are being prepared, but where and by whom has been kept a profound secret. Nobody but Filley is aware of that. I do know, however, that they will be worthy of the struggle that terminated with Garfield's nomination, and I have told Mr. Filley that I will wear mine with great pride. Filley told me that there was great trouble in securing the head, which is a perfect likeness."

"In what way?"

"Well, two pictures were sent on here, but neither of them seemed to suit. In one the hair was not right; in the other the features, etc. About nine months ago, Filley went to Lieut. Fred. Grant at New York, requesting him to ask his father to have another photograph taken. The General sat in New York and sent the picture on here."

"Was it a success?"

"A great one. The first design from it in brass was forwarded to New York. Gen. Grant, his wife, Senator Conkling, and a number of ladies and gentlemen inspected it. It was generally acceptable, but when Conkling's turn came, he looked at it attentively and said, 'I don't like the nose.' Mrs. Grant studied the design closely, smiled, and said 'I ought to be a very good judge of that nose. It is perfect. I would not have it changed for the world. Grant scanned the counterfeit presentment of himself, nodded assent and the matter was settled. Oh, they will be beauties. When I get mine, I'll give you a first look at it. If I hear anything further about them I'll let you know. Good day."

THE LUCKY MISSOURIANS.

The medals will be given to all the men who stood by the "old man" at Chicago. Missouri had thirty delegates, twenty-nine of whom are in that category. They are: Chauncey I. Filley and David Wagner of St. Louis, Robt. T. Van Horn, Kansas City, and H. E. Havens, Springfield, the delegates at large; Nicholas Berg, Thomas B. Rodgers, John W. Wheeler and John Henry Pohlmann, St. Louis; John A. Weber, Farmington; T. G. Allen, Jennings; Wm. Ballentine, Commerce; James Lindsay, St. Louis; Hamilton E. A Complimentary Breakfast to Bardwell Slote and Mrs. Gilflory.

The St. Louis friends of Mr. Wm. J. Florence will give him a farewell breakfast to-morrow, at the Lindell. Mr. Florence will probably go to Europe, perhaps as a diplomat, after the season, and his many admirers in the city meet him for the purpose of bidding him bon voyage. The banquet will be set in the ladies' ordinary at the Lindell and will begin at 11 a. m. Among the gentlemen who will sit down are Messrs. John C. Gault, Wm. H. Thompson, J. C. Normile, W. H. Smith, Chas Elleard, W. H. Nave, Henry Ames, Jos. A. Robertson, J. H. Sturgeon, Pat Short, N. C. Cameron, Joseph B. McCullough, James Cash. Chas. Pope, Ed Zimmermann, John A. Cockerill, Dr. McPheeters, Dr. P. S. O'Reilly, Lieut.-Gov. Campbell, John W. Norton, Harry Noxon, Charles Lewis, A. Hargadine, Joseph T. McCullough, John J. Daly and James Tiernan. The bill of fare, which is prepared in Aleck Howard's best style, comprises all that is good and delicate in the market. The menu card is a gem. It consists of three gilt-edged cards, covered with a light blue satin ribbon and tassel, the whole fastened together with a bow of old gold. On the inside of the first page are the words "Complimentary breakfast to W. J. Florence, by his friends, January 29th, Lindell Hotel, St. Louis." Both sides of the second card will be left blank for autographs. The inside of the third will contain the following unique bill of fare:

THE THEATERS.

A Fine Run of Attractions for the Coming Week.

Gossip—Green Room Echoes—Movements in Dramatic and Musical Circles.

The week's business has been very good in the main, and, although there was nothing of a particularly novel or striking nature presented at the different houses, there were many old and new admirers of the Florences, Miss Davenport, John A. Stevens and Haverly's Mastodons, who enjoyed their performances as though they were perfectly fresh and up to the current demand for brand new dramatic work.

OLYMPIC THEATER.

Miss Fanny Davenport's second week promises to be to a very great degree more interesting than was her first series of performances. Miss Davenport's engagement was in one respect a remarkable one; she has acceded to the general demand for good companies and she has brought to St. Louis one of the very best combinations of artists ever brought here. Messrs. Clarke, Fisher, Harry Hawk, Edwin Price, Harry Pearson, and the other members of the company are of such a high order of ability that the representations of comedy and drama are thoroughly artistic. The programme for the coming week will embrace "Camille," Sunday evening, "School for Scandal" Monday evening. On Tuesday evening and during the balance of the week will be presented one of the best successes of the Paris season, "The Princess of Bagdad," with the following cast:

Fanny Davenport as.....Lionette
Count Victor de Mars, the husband,.....Mr. Geo. Clarke
Mons. Nourrady, a very singlar man,.....E. Tearle
Godler, a very young old man,.....Mr. Harry Hawk Trerele, a butterfly.....Mr. Lewis Baker
Richard, a friend and a lawyer,.....Mr Harry Pearson
Commissary of Police.....Mr. W. J. Hurley
Jane, a maid.....Mrs. Chas. Fisher
Victor, a child.....Little Laura Horne

A synopsis of the play is as follows: Act I.—Debts and a Little Key. Act II.—A Million in Gold. Act III.—"My Child is Buried."

The bill will be a double one, and Gilbert's neat play of "Charity" will introduce the company in the following cast:

Fanny Davenport.....Ruth Tredgett
(As originally played by her 100 nights in New York.)
Jonas Smalley, aged 50.....Geo. Clarke
Dr. Atheiney, the parson.....M Chas. Fisher
Ted Atheiney, his son, rough and ready.....Mr. E. Tearle
Fred. Smalley, an esthetic youth.....Mr. Lewis Baker
Mrs. Van Britton.....Miss Mary Shaw
Eve, her daughter.....Mrs. Chas. Fisher

On Friday night Miss Davenport will take a farewell benefit, at which the great double bill will be presented.

On Saturday evening, February 4th, Mr. Pat. Short, the accommodating and very popular treasurer of the Olympic, will take his annual benefit, upon which occasion, "As You Like It," one of the most charming successes of Miss Davenport's season, will be given with its magnificent cast. The public is under untold obligations to Mr. Short and his unvarying good natnre, courtesy and attention to the convenience and equipments of the patrons of the Olympic, and they should be glad of the opportunity to demonstrate in a substantial manner how well they can remember such attentions. Mr. Short's night can hardly fail of attracting one of the largest houses of the season.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The advance sale of seats for the season of the popular little prima donna, Miss Emma Abbott, and her fine company, demonstrate that it will be an unusually large and successful one. The repertoire is particularly interesting and will embrace a number of very attractive novelties. On Monday Flotow's delightful opera of "Martha" will be given; Tuesday Auber's "Fra Diavolo" for the first time; at the Wednesday matinee "Olivette;" Wednesday night and Saturday night, Gilbert and Sullivan's latest sensation of "Patience;" Thursday evening, Balfe's "Bohemian Girl;" Friday, Gounoud's "Romeo and Juliet;" Saturday matinee Gounoud's "Faust." "Patience" was substituted for "The Chimes of Normandy" for Saturday night since the original announcements. Miss Abbott will be assisted by George Conly, the great basso; Wm. Castle, the popular tenor; A. R. Stoddard, the excellent baritone; Miss Rosewald, soprano; Miss Annandale, contralto, and a new tenor, who is said to possess a very sweet and well-sultured voice. There are also a strong corps of principals and chorus singers and the orchestra will be up to grand opera requirements. It will indeed be Miss Abbott's best season in her St. Louis record.

POPE'S THEATER.

The engagement of the great Italian artist, Ernesto Rossi, is equal in importance to that of Salvini, whose most particular rival he was in Italy. His repertoire is, indeed, more interesting than was Salvini's, being more devoted to Shakespeare and to characters with which the American public is familiar. The representations next week will be as follows: Monday, "Hamlet;" Tuesday, "Edmund Kean;" Wednesday, "King Lear;" Thursday, "Louis XI;" Friday, "Othello." The Saturday matinee will close the representations and one of the successes of the week will be repeated then. Of Rossi, Mr. Chas. Weber Clarke, of the Philadelphia Bulletin, an intelligent and discriminating critic, says:

"Each of Signor Rossi's characterizations is distinguished by a clear and distinct individuality. * * * The Lear of Rossi is natural and real. While it is kingly, it is still human. * * * In the first act Signor Rossi makes of Lear an old man nearing his second childhood; he is impetuous, simple-minded, yet he ever bears in his person and manner the mark of his high birth. While later in the play, cast off and insulted by his ungrateful daughters, we see vividly the injured father, yet is there never a step downward from regal diguity. Nothing could be better than the actor's subtle discrimination in this matter; and the distinction is so nice and so polished that it simply beggars description. The growing insanity was particularly well drawn. He finally passes through stages of flighti[ness] weak simplicity and childishness, until [he] is turned completely, and he becomes monarch in the crown of straw-bound sceptre. Then the returning memory, and the recognition of Cordelia, are marked by a tenderness that teems with pathos; and the final scene of all—remarkable for its solemn sadness—forms a fitting climax to a personation of rare merit.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.

Rose Eytinge, an actress who occupies a place in the front ranks of American actresses, and who is peculiarly strong in the portrayal of passionate and impulsive phases of character, will appear next week at the People's Theater in McCazauran's adaption of Defrit's famous novel, "Le Fils de Coralie," entitled "Felicia," supported by a fine company. The piece will be handsomely set and costumed. Of this production the New York Telegram says:

"The performance of the piece was entrusted to able artists. Miss Rose Eytinge was seen at her best in the part of Mme. Dumont, the famous 'Felicia,' who was a sort of reformed Camille. Nothing could have been much more natural than the expression of her idolatrous love for her son, Captain John, and her agony at the thought that her shameful life had ruined him, whose own virtues had won him fame and honor. Of Miss Eytinge it can be written with truth that she is fitted for such spheres as that in which she now moves. There are few, if any, better artistes on the American stage than Miss Rose Eytinge, but, like a diamond of purest water, she must be suitably set, under proper light, and be viewed by connoisseurs to be appreciated at her real value. She was heartily welcomed back to the Union Square Theater last night and looked and acted as if she felt at home. To Mr. Cazauran belong great honors, and never has he proved himself so thorough a playwright and so conscientious a disciple of art in its purest and noblest sense as he did when he dramatized 'Le Fils de Coralie.' 'Felicia' ought to have a long run."

THE MAPLESON SEASON.

The season of the Mapleson Opera Company will begin at Pope's Theater on Monday, February 6, with the grand production of "Carmen." Mlle. Minnie Hauck will appear in the title role, Sig. Campanini as Don Jose and Del Puente as Escamillo, a cast which created a wonderful sensation two seasons ago. Meyerbeer's "Les Huguenots," a work which is most exacting and requiring the strongest kind of lyric ability, will be the second representation, and will introduce the new prima donna, Mlle. Rossini, as Valentina and Signor Ravelli in his great part of Raoul, and an otherwise magnificent cast. "Lohengrin" is set for Wednesday night, "Il Flanto Magico" Thursday night, "Faust" Friday night, and "Fidelio" Saturday night, February 11. A favorite opera will be given at the matinee on the 11th. The sale of seats for the season will open Wednesday, February 1, at 9 a. m.

THE PATTI CONCERT.

The farewell concert and operatic performance to be given by Adelina Patti in St. Louis, on Saturday evening, February 4, will pack Pope's Theater with one of the most brilliant assemblages of talent and fashion ever attracted together under one roof in this city. The application for seats has already been something remarkable, and long before the date of the performance there will be but little left bevond standing room. Patti will appear in acts of "Lucia" and "Il Barbiere de Seville," and will also sing some of her beatiful symoathetic English ballads in the concert numbers. Nicolini and her excellent company will also appear in musical selections and in the leading characters in the operas. The sale of seats will open on Monday, January 30, at 12 m, at the store of Story & Camp. The general admission will be $2; reserved seats, $2 and $3 extra, according to location.

NOTES AND GOSSIP.

Miss Ada Cavendish is soon to appear as Lady Teazle at the London Vaudeville.

John T. Raymond is the happy father of a new boy, born at Moville last Monday.

George Devere, of J. T. Raymond's company, thumped a fellow half to death in Lafayette, Ind., for trying to peep over the transom of Miss Lizzie Creese's room in the hotel.

J. W. Collier has engaged the following people for the "Lights o' London," which he produces at Haverly's Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, on the 30th: Louise Sylvester, Edna Carey, Miss Willis, F. F. Mackay and Charles Stanley.

Sardou's play of "Odette" is to have its first production in America at Daly's Theater, New York, on February 6. Miss Ada Rehan will essay the title role, and Miss Helene Stoepel, better known as Heron, will personate Berangere, the daughter of Odette.

Frank Mayo played Davy Crockett and Badger ("Streets of New York") in New Orleans last week. It is said he has abandoned the idea of playing tragedy for the rest of the season, and will strive, in the above tamed parts, to regain the money his experiment has cost him.

Mr. Stuart Robson has purchased Mr. Charles R. Thorne's summer residence at Cohasset, for $15,000, with the intention, it is said, of presenting it to his daughter, Miss Alecia Robson, who will, in a short time, retire from the stage to become the wife of a New York banker Mr. Thorne will hereafter pass his summers at Newport.

Actors and actresses appear to take a great interest in the Guiteau case. Rossi, Lawrence Barrett, Lotta and Robson and Crane have attended the trial at different times, and last Sunday the two latter visited the assassin in jail, in company with his counsel, Mr. Reed. Mr. Robson, on leaving, gave Guiteau $10.

The company which Augustin Daly will send out February 6, to play "The Passing Regiment," on the road, will include Digby Bell, J. W. Shannon, B. T. Ringgold, Charles Rockwell, E. P. Wilks, Harry Macdonough, Miss Maria Williams, Mrs. Charles Poole, Miss Virginia Brooks, Georgine Flagg, Kate Gurney and May Sylvie.

New and very stringent rules have been adopted by the New York fire department for the safety of theater patrons, which include an important order that each portion of the auditorium must have exclusive entrance direct from the street, so that, in case of alarm, the people on the upper tiers do not come in contact with those on the lower floor.

Mr. Stetson has in view the organization of a monster combination, to fill three or four weeks' time at Booth's Theater, and a fortnight at the Globe, Boston, in the spring. His idea is to get up an entertainment, to consist of an extravaganza, a ballet and a pantomime, with a fourth company to introduce specialties, and give the preparation and direction of each branch to some well-known manager in that line, as for instance: Mr. Willie Edouin for the first named, the Kiralfy brothers for the second and Messrs. Mallitt and Bartholomew for the third.

PADDY AND JOHN.

Preparing for the Champion Fight near New Orleans.

From the New Orleans Times Democrat.

The wet weather of the past two days has compelled both of the pugilists now training in the neighborhood of this city to forego the usual amount of outdoor exercise that they have been accustomed to take in order to reduce themselves to the proper fighting weight. This is, however, harder on the Boston boy than on the man from Troy, as the roads in the vicinity of West End, where the latter is training, are never quite impassable, even after the hardest rains, while in the vicinity of Carrollton the roads are often ankle deep in mud. Both men are rapidly getting themselves into fighting trim, and both express themselves as confident of winning. One or the other is doomed to certain disappointment, but which one can best be told on the evening of February 7. The friends of both men seem as confident as the two pugilists themselves. Madden, Sullivan's trainer, yesterday told a gentleman that the fight would be over in ten minutes, and that in that time Sullivan would have knocked his opponent out of time.

The Ryan men say, on the contrary, that the battle will last for a much longer period of time, and that, despite the terrific hitting powers claimed for Sullivan by his friends, he will never be able to down the man from Troy, barring an accident. The Sullivan party state what their man will do in loud tones that show how strong their faith in him must be. The Ryan party, on the contrary, have an air of quiet confidence that inspires no small amount of faith in the powers of their favorite.

During the rainy weather Sullivan takes a couple of spins of one hundred yards each during the day, running the distance at top speed. Then, after being rubbed down, he spends a portion of the afternoon in fighting a leather ball suspended by a rope from the rafters of a shed in the rear of his quarters. A gentleman who saw him yesterday taking this latter exercise says that he is very quick with his left, which is his main reliance, but that with his right he is slow, though with it he strikes a terrible blow, which, if he should get in on the right place, would be pretty apt to do some damage.

Joe Goss is now assisting Madden in caring for him, the latter being left to look after some of the outside business.

Ryan keeps steadily at work, though bothered, to a certian extent, by the swarm of people who flock to see him at the West End, a fact not made patent to the visitors, because he is too gentlemanly to let them see that they cause him any annoyance. Ryan's benefit, which, if a permit can be obtained, will take place in Exposition Hall Sunday nigh, will give the lovers of the manly art a chance to compare his sparring with that of Sullivan's. It is understood that Sullivan will give another exhibition prior to the fight, assisted by Madden, Farrell, McCoy and the English pugilist, Joe Goss, winding up with the latter.

A Squeezed out Land.

From the Chicago Tribune.

The worst squeezed lemon in Europe is Egypt. It is a little country of less fertile area than half of Illinois, and containing a out 5,000,000 poverty-stricken inhabitants—slaves rather. The ex-Knedive or Prince borrowed money in the most reckless manner, until he ran up a bonded debt of over 400 millions of dollars, drawing, most of it, six per cent interest. The actual amount of money which he got from the French and English bondholders was not much more than 200 millions, and the money was squandered in building palaces, multiplying harems, and in riotous living. Finally, upon failing to pay the bondholders their usury, they upset him and seated his son on the throne, and placed a joint commission of comptrollers in charge of the treasury to collect the taxes and revenues and pay them over to these bloodsuckers. The Egyptians have become restive, and are determined to shake off this foreign yoke if they can. The "budget" which has produced the present disturbance is a bill of appropriations for the new year. It sets down the gross income of the nation at $43,762,795. Over one-half of this amount ($25 000,000) is to go to the foreign creditors, and $3,500,000 more as a tribute to the Sultan of Turkey. Then comes an appropriation of $2,500 000 for the army, and another one of over $13,000,000 for governmental and miscellaneous expenses. Suffice it to say that out of the very respectable gross income above named there remains, after all the various expenses are deducted, a paltry surplus of about $10,060. How Egypt is ever to get out of its present financial straits, under such a condition of affairs, would puzzle the wisest bankers of the world to tell. No doubt the entire hopelessness of the situation is the very thorn which has stung the Notables and Arabi Bey into a quasi revolt against the arrangement of the Foreign Controllers-General.

Wouldn't be Shaken.

Cleveland (O.) Special Dispatch.

Susie Pendleton is the name of a plump, vivacious brunette, who for two years previous to his death, lived with Robert J. McLean as his wife. McLean was an undertaker and livery stable keeper, doing business in this city, and has been dead about two months. After his death a Mr. Reynolds, administrator of McLean's estate, set aside out of the estate $260 per annum for Susie, believing her to be McLean's wife. He now believes she was not united to the dead man by the bonds of wedlock, and has made a motion before the Probate Judge to disallow Susie's claim. The case came up for hearing to-day and attracted a large crowd to the court room. Annie McLean, a sister of the deceased, was called to the stand. She wept and sobbed bitterly while testifying. She said her brother never referred to Susie Pendleton as his wife, but used to call her bad names. Continuing, she said: "Two years ago Robert received a fortune, and from that time to the day of his death she never left him. He tried to shake her off, but could not. He told me more than once that he would have to kill himself to get rid of her. One night he told me he'd cut his throat, and all through the night I walked about the yard, expecting every minute to find my brother's lifeless body lying behind some fence." Annie further testified that Susie had been the terror of herself and mother before and since her brother's death. Susie sat in the court room during the hearing with a smiling countenance, not appropriate to a widow, and whispered and laughed with her attorney. She seemed not the least put out by the testimony elicited, much of which was very damaging to her reputation as a pure-minded woman.

A Cure for Weak Eyes.

From the London Paper.

Mr. Dana was born in 1816, at Cambridge, in Massachusetts, and gave early evidences of the intellectual and literary aptitudes which he received from nature's hand. When he was but a boy of 18, he found that his devotion to study at Harvard University had brought on a weakness of the eyes, which, in his own words, "he resolved to cure, if possible, by an entire change of life, and by a long absence from books, together with plenty of hard work, plain food and open air." With this purpose in view he engaged himself as a common sailor on board the brig Pilgrim, of Boston, which was about to make a trip round Cape Horn to the western coast of North America. To this we owe "Two Years Before the Mast"—one of the most graphic and interesting books that ever came from an American pen. It is not generally known that in early life Mr. Gladstone, suffered, like Mr. Dana, from a weakness of the eyes which threatened very serious consequences, and which the English prime minister happily cured by confining himself voluntarily for six months within the precincts of a darkened room. In both cases the remedy was successful.

Never Smiles.

From Forney's Progress.

The English waiter never smiles—or, if he does, nobody ever catches him at it. While on the City of Rome, Rufus Hatch wagered $10 that he would bring a smile to the face of the waiter at his table before the steamer sighted the Irish coast. He lost. Between Queenstown and Liverpool he offered the waiter two sovereigns if he would shave off his chin whiskers. There was no indication that the man gave the offer the slightest consideration; yet, when the next meal was served, he appeared with mutton-chop whiskers and pocketed his two sovereigns, saying "Thank you, sir," with a face as grave as an owl.

A Fire-Haunted Man

From the Breckenridge, (Ky.) News.

James Minor, a wealthy bachelor of Nelson county, and brother to Hon. William E. Minor, of this county, possesses a history so much out of the common run that it is well worthy of being put on record. He is literally a fire-haunted man. All his life he has been persistently followed by a series of strange fatalities that are in themselves almost enough to cause the most superstitious to look upon his visits as something to be dreaded. When a child, Mr. Minor's mother was accidentally burned to death. At the decease of his father he inherited the homestead farm, the dwelling on which was at that day one of the finest residences in Nelson county, having been erected at a cost of $10,000. It caught fire and was consumed to ashes. He erected a new house at like cost only to become in turn food for the hungry flames. He subsequently engaged in the lumber business and lost a large and valuable lot of lumber by fire. He then visited his brother, residing in Holt's Bottom, this county, and in two or three days after his arrival the dwelling of the latter was consumed by fire. He then went to Kansas to visit his step-mother, and while they were conversing about the strange fatality that seemed to dog him through life, the kitchen of her house burst into flames. Returning to Kentucky and visiting at the house of a relative in his native county, while the family were discussing his bad luck — during the course of conversation his host assured him that while they were glad to see him, of course they were rather afraid that they would be burned up in consequence of his visit—the kitchen of that house was also discovered to be on fire. From thence he proceeded to visit the family of another relative in the same county, and, as usual, the subject of the remarkable fatality that seemed to pursue him formed the staple of conversation. A broom in the room was ignited by a spark from the fire, whereupon the young lady of the house remarked that she had left some fire in the parlor, and she believed that she would go and see if everything was right. Opening the parlor door, the apartment was discovered to be in flames. If any county in any State can produce a man who can truthfully point to a life filled with such strange experiences, or anything at all approaching them, now is the time to bring him to the front.

Those Figures Again.

From the Chicago Times.

During the Presidential canvass in the fall of 1880 it was alleged that Gen. Garfield, while a member of Congress, corruptly received $329 from Oakes Ames in connection with the Credit Mobilier business. One day, somewhere down East, a party of boys, set on by some dry Democratic joker, gained access to a hall in which a Republican meeting was to be held in the evening, and marked up, in conspicuous places about the room, the figures "329." The incident got upon the wires as a good joke, and it took like wildfire. Inside of twenty four hours the dead walls, fences, sidewalks, and many places difficult of access were emblazoned with the number. It became, in fact, an element in the campaign, and a superstition grew up that it would follow the object of the raillery through his future career. When the President was shot, the first question was: "How many days have passed since his nomination?" A little reflection called up the fact that it was over a year. When he died an attempt was made to figure out the number in the lapse of days after his election, but it failed to bring out the required number by about two weeks; and now, since the conviction of Guiteau, the inquiry naturally turns in the same direction. This time the fatality comes out. Guiteau was convicted on the 329th day after the inauguration of President Garfield. From March 4 to January 25, both inclusive, is 328 day; but the inauguration occurred at noon on the 4th day of March, and Guiteau was not convicted until late in the afternoon of the 25th of January, which was the 329th day, it having begun at 12 o'clock meridian.

Wheat—Receipts 3,090 sks, 23,400 bu. Lower on unfavorable reports from other markets, with a generally weak, though unsettled feeling, so that prices were irregular. A disposition was shown to crowd down prices, and there were pretty free sellers, futures closing 1⅛c lower for Feb., 1⅛c for March and April, and 1¼c for May. Grades were dull, as the milling and order demand was light, and their buyers easily supplied; shorts took little. Spot No. 2 red sold at $1 43⅛@1 44⅛, closing at $1 43⅞; Feb. at $1 44⅛@1 43⅛, closing at $1 44; March at $1 43⅞@⅛; April at $1 44⅛@1 43⅛; May at $1 43⅝@1 43; year at $1 15⅛, with $1 14⅞ bid later; on Call at $1 43⅛ bid Jan., $1 32⅞ for June, 118 for July. No. 3 red sold at $1 35 this side, but regular offered at $1 34⅛; No 4 salable at $1 17 in St. L., and E., and offered at $1 17⅛ in V.; No. 2 Mediterranean sold this side at $1 40@$1 39⅛; No. 3 do at $1 35 in C.; $1 06 for No. 3 spring.

Corn—Receipts —— sks, 123,000 bu. Lower, as receipts were heavy, there were more sellers than buyers and other markets were off in price, the consequence being a weak feeling, closing at declines of ⅜c for Jan., Feb. and March and ⅛c for April and May. The shipping demand was much less for grades, but No. 2 mixed sold actively to a speculator on call. Spot No. 2 mixed sold at 64 to 63⅛; Jan. at 64 to 63⅜, worth about 63⅛ at close; Feb. at 64⅛@63⅝; March at 65⅛@⅛ to 64⅞; May at 67⅞@67⅛; bids of 66 for April, 68⅛ for June, 69⅛ for July; spot No. 2 white mixed at 71⅛ in C., and St. L., 70⅞ bid for U.; Feb. at 70⅞@71⅛; May at 75; rejected do at 69⅛ in E., 70⅛ in St. L.; rejected at 60 in C., St. L. and E., 60⅛ in U., but V., offered at 59⅛; for no grade 54 bid.

Oats—Receipts 710 sks, 9,600 bu. The depression in corn, together with advices of lower markets elsewhere, had a weakening effect, but the loss in value was slight and most sellers were inclined to hold firmly. Spot offerings taken fairly to order and feeding buyers. Spot No. 2 sold at 46⅛ in U., 46⅞ in E., 47@46⅞ in St L., and 46⅛ bid for regular; February 45⅞; May at 48; bids of 46⅛ for January and for March; No. 2 white in E., sold at 46⅛ and 47 bid for St. L., where rejected brought 46⅛.

Rye—Receipts —— sks, 1,500 bu. There was a shipping inquiry and sales could readily have been made, but the supply was scant and generally sold above buyers' views. No. 2 sold at 96 in C. and 97 bid for E. side; for rejected 94 bid.

Barley—Receipts 6,000 bu. Market very quiet, as holders continue to ask higher prices than buyers will pay. We quote: Rejected 70@80; medium 80@85; prime 90@95c; choice to fancy $1@1 05; Canada $1 07@1 20.

Hay—Receipts 286 tons. The market was aptly described as "sick" by a dealer, there being but a light demand, and that from local feeders for choice, while prices were lower for all except prairie. Sales this side: Common to choice prairie $9 to $12; mixed $15@17; prime timothy $18@20; fancy $22; East track: prime timothy $17.

Millfeed was slower sale, but firm in price, sacked selling in warehouse at $1 06 and at mill at $1 08.

Provisions showed the usual last day of the week quietude, though a comparatively fair business was transacted. The feeling however, was easy. Standard mess pork sold at $18 35 spot; February salable at $18 12⅛, with $18 25 asked; March at $18 37⅛, with $18 45 asked; April $18 50, none offered. Prime steam lard brought 11 15. Figures held for on loose dry salt were 6 15 for shoulders, 9.15 for long clear, 9.20 for clear ribs, 9.40 for short clear, with some sales; 15-day long clear sold up country at 8.55, freight 15, and boxed clear ribs on spot at 9.30. Bacon long clear sold packed at 10⅛, clear ribs loose at 10 spot and 10.10 for next week and short clear at 10 30@.35; packed shoulders worth 7⅛ and short clear held at 10⅞, with 10⅛ bid. S. C. hams 11@12 for plain, 11⅛@12⅛ for canvased. Tallow 7⅛@8⅛, according to quality; grease tallow 7. Breakfast bacon 11@12⅛. Grease 5@6 for brown, 6⅛@7c for yellow, 7⅛@8⅛c for white. Beef—Extra mess $13 00 per bri; family $7 25 per half brl; dried 11⅛@13c per pound. Fresh smoked tongues $4 50@5 00 per doz. Salt—Michigan $1 60 per brl. Ground alum $1 20@1 25 per sack.

Highwines—Steady. Sales 175 bbls at $1 17. Cincinnati and Peoria $1 16; Chicago, $1 18.

Lead—Soft Missouri could readily be sold at $4 80, though there is no inquiry noticable, but holders will not sell below $4 85. A lot of 105 tons common sold at $4 87⅛@4 90.

CATTLE—Very few in, and the demand light. In fact, the usual Saturday dullness again prevailed. The inquiry was altogether of a local character and mainly for butcher stock. Shippers did not want any. Outside of this there is nothing new to note. The prospects for the coming week as regards the demand and prices on fair to good butcher and shipping steers a little more flattering, as the run in all probability will be light and this will enable the market to recover somewhat. Good feeding steers scarce and wanted at quotations given below. Stock cattle dull. Ruling quotations slow.

FOR TRESPASSING.

Unlucky Workingmen With a Prospect of Going to the Work-house.

This morning thirteen working men were arraigned in the First District Police Court, on a charge of trespassing. A little officer with small moustache and a big overcoat, from the Second District, was the prosecuting witness. Last night he arrested the men while they were sleeping in McDonald's forge at the foot of Miller street. The story of Ed. O'Brien, one of their number is about the same as they all swore to. "I was looking for work and am out of money," said O'Brien. "I'm willing to do anything for a living. Last night I went to the police station at Second and Chestnut streets, but I could not get lodging there. I went to Seventh and Carr, to the station there, but I couldn't get lodging. I didn't know what to do, so I started out to walk the streets all night. It was pouring down rain, so I went to this place, and as I didn't think I was doing anything wrong I got a plank and laid down." The city's testimony was that the men had been found there, but the proprietor or any of the forge men did not appear against the defendants, most of whom were evidently hard-working men. The ambitious young blue-coat swore a $10 fine on to most of the defendants. The others had their cases continued.

The Garfield Calendar.

This beautiful specimen of the chromo lithographic art made by the Compton Lithograph Company, of this city, for Messrs. John Endres & Co., has created a genuine sensation. Those who have been favored with a copy beg for another, and all who see it want it. Messrs. Endres & Co. are fairly besieged for copies, both at their office, corner Second and Walnut, and through the mails. Although it was issued by them as an advertisement of their celebrated "Grape Creek" and intended only for their special trade and customers, the request for it is universal, applicants saying they would cheerfully pay for them if they could be obtained for money. This is not surprising, for the splendid chromo portrait of President Garfield that adorns the upper portion of the calendar, is certainly the best that has been published. It has all the depth of tone and color of an oil painting; the flesh tints are admirable, and the drawing is strong, vigorous and true to life.

The Compton Lithograph Company in their new quarters, northeast corner Third and Vine, are doing splendid lithographic work, and are crowded with ...ters from all parts of the coun...

'CHANGE NOTES.

Stocks of Grain in This Market.

First New Hemp—A Bear's Idea—A Broom Corn Shipper.

H. B. Bilbro and Mack Robinson were ambling around the floor to-day. They have come this time to stay.

The report was started on the floor to-day that the February wheat longs were selling out, having put several brokers in the field.

A telegram from New York says, the clique in wheat there have become distrustful of one another, and that David Dows has sold out, but that other strong parties are buying.

Armour & Co., of Chicago, it is reported, have borrowed $15,000,000, intending to buy up the provisions and carry them until the United States and England wants them at his own prices.

It is said that Andrew & Co., of Chicago, are going to institute a suit for damages under the patent laws of the United States, against the parties who defaced his sign on call board chairs.

There is nothing like consuming all you can of the article you have gone long on. When Dave Francis was long on oats it is said he had nothing on his table but oatmeal, and now Gov. Web. Samuel's diet is the simple, but nutritious cornmeal cake.

The Butter and Cheese Exchange, of New York contemplates enlarging the shere of its operations by adding grain and provision "calls" to the business in dairy products. The Produce Exchange don't like this, as it thinks the movement will be antagonistic to its interests.

A mistake was made yesterday in the statement that the visible supply of corn had decreased 323,000 bushels. It should have read, increased that amount. The eagle eye of Maj. George Minch detected this glaring error at once. The mistake is cheerfully corrected, as it is not possible that it would help a half interest in a call on January corn at 70c.

To-day B. D. Kilcullen received the first consignment of new hemp for this season, the lot, consisting of ten bales undressed and of extra choice quality, coming from Frank Turman, Page City, Mo. Barney says he will donate the whole lot to the Government if it will work it into a rope to hang Guiteau with.

Tom Akin, the longest and sharpest clawed, shaggy coated and generally beariest bear on the floor, says: "Do you know that the bulls are sending over to East St. Louis and having every car of No.2 wheat that comes in inspected and a sample bagfull brought over to this side. They think in this way to reduce the supply of wheat in sight, but it's a weak invention of the enemy and won't work. You hear my fog-horn?"

Does any merchant wish a consignment of broom corn? If he does, let him read the following, addressed "To Enny Commission Merchuuts, Saint Louis," and received to-day: "Martinsville, Ill., Jan. 25th, 1882—Commission Mercuant gents sur I have on hand 2 tuns of good Broom Corn Grated No. 2 wich I want to seil at the Hiest Marked prise for Cash if you are Handling such goods please Rite Me your Best figurs ameadly Yours Very Respecfuly Jacop Stansley."

The Exchange report of grain in store this morning shows wheat to have increased 14,000 bushels in the past week, with 517,000 bushels No. 2 red November on hand. The withdrawals from elevator during week were 53,227 for local consumption and 18,673 bushels for rail shipment. In corn there has been an increase of 262,000 bushels, with 1 502,621 bushels No. 2 mixed in store, which is an increase of 290,000 bushels; 74,861 bushels was used by the local trade, 189 380 for rail shipment and 106,935 sent away by river. Oats have decreased 19,000 bushels, 13,000 of which was in No. 2, there being now 102,651 bushels of this grade in store. The withdrawals were 29,810 for city and 9,212 for rail and 13,062 for river shipment.

LADIES' SKATING CONTEST.

Miss Hattie Johnson Carries off the First Prize.

The Roller Skating Rink presented a most animated appearance this morning, affording a new field for the triumphs of the fair sex, the occasion being a contest for two gold medals, the prize to be awarded by the vote of the spectators. A large number of elegantly dressed ladies were present, to sit in judgment upon the fair contestants, seven in number: Miss Pearl Massingale, Miss Nannie Rex, Miss Annie Livingstone, Miss Lizzie King, Miss Hattie Johnson, Mrs. Kain and Mrs. Gillespie.

Miss Pearl Massingale's costume was of olive green cloth, with deep pleatings in front, bouffant, draperies at the back, a stylish basque, closed with strips of leather; olive green hat, with ecru plume.

Miss Nannie Rex's costume was of black velvet, very stylish jacket, double-breasted, with metal buttons, a large Rubens hat of black velvet, studded with jet and nodding plumes and was extremely becoming.

Miss Livingstone's costume was jupe of black satin, tablier trimmed with large puffs, princess overdress of brocaded silk lined with cerise satin, a cerise silk handkerchief crossed a la fichu; Derby hat.

Miss Lizzie King, garnet cloth, tablier pleated to the waist, bouffant draperies at the back, basque trimmed with a number of gilt buttons, Tyrolese hat with long, floating ribbons.

Miss Hattie Johnson, navy blue cloth, kilt pleated to the waist, with diagonal draperies across the front, close-fitting basque trimmed with gilt buttons; coaching hat with long streamers.

Mrs. Kane, jupe of black satin, trimmed with knife pleating, princess overdress of brocaded satin, trimmed with cut steel fringe and buttons; black hat with plumes.

Mrs. Gillespie, black costume of cashmere, with capote of feathers.

The young ladies proved themselves very proficient. The front roll, the double step, front ring and outer edge were the only varieties attempted, with the exception of Miss Johnson, who sculled beautifully. It was quite a beautiful picture as they glided around so smoothly and gracefully, often keeping time to the music. There were a great many graceful skaters present, who did not enter into the contest, which was decided by ballot, each lady being furnished with a ticket for that purpose. Miss Hattie Johnson having received the largest number of votes, was awarded the first prize. The first prize is a shield of gold, with a raised figure of a young girl on rollers. around the shield is an olive wreath in green tinted gold. The shield is suspended from a miniature roller skate. The second prize is a medallion of gold, with the figure engraved upon it, suspended from a scroll. This prize was awarded to Miss Pearl Massingale. There was a good deal of interest manifested in the decision.

Among the ladies present were Miss Tallie Brant, Miss Lulu Triplett, Miss Nellie Maxon, Miss Syvil Rex, Annie Webb, Mrs. Wm. C. Little, Miss Mollie Tansey, Miss Annie Wade, Miss Kate Goodwood, Miss Florence Boevis, Mrs. Robert Filley, Miss Nellie Shields, Lulu Hopkins, Mrs. Henry Lucas, Fannie Capen, Mrs. Frank Filley, Mamie Hopkins, Mrs. Charles Lucas, Cora Libby, Fannie Carr, Miss Glenn.

Pillaging Western Mails.

Herman Haeussler received this morning from the Denver Post-Office Inspector's Department a letter found December 23d near Canada, Alamosa Creek, New Mexico, by parties connected with the Quartermaster's Department of the United States Army, who were encamped near by. The mail pouches had been cut open, and the valuable letters all rifled of their contents. The robbery was done by parties at present unknown, but believed to have been Indians en route from Silver City to Socorro, N. M., about January 22. This information has been furnished by Post-Office Inspector R. D. Cameron, of the Denver District. Mr. Haeussler's letter contained a receipt returned to him by Robert B. Clark, of Silver City, New Mexico.

OVER A CENTURY OLD.

Death of Mrs. Mary Lydon at the Age of 104

Mrs. Mary Lydon died yesterday at 2027 Morgan street at the ripe old age of 103 years, 11 months and 17 days. She was born in Ireland on the 12th of February, 1778, and has seen all the changes which have passed over that kingdom for a century. She was a very old woman when she came to this country, being then eighty-seven years of age, and she has resided during the last sixteen years in St. Louis, where her grandson, Dr. J. J. Kane, is a well-known citizen and a prominent physician. Up to the very last she had all her faculties about her and was a hale, hearty and vigorous old lady. It was her boast that she had never been sick a day in her life, and it is a fact that the first medical attendance she has had in all these years was given ten days ago, when her fatal illness came upon her. Her hair was only partly gray and her step was as elastic as in youth Old age was the sole cause of her death. The funeral will take place at 1:30 to-morrow from her residence on Morgan street, and the large family and many friends of the deceased lady will be present. She will be taken to St. Bridget's Church and thence to the family lot in Calvary.

ABOUT 1 o'clock this afternoon Maurice Buttermore left his team of horses attached to a furniture car, standing on Fifth and St. Charles street. When he returned after fifteen minutes' absence his team and wagon were not in view. Mr. Buttermore and the police are now trying to meet those three boys.

A GRAND complimentary entertainment was given by the Mound City Lodge, No. 276, I. O. O. F., at their hall, corner Fourteenth and Exchange streets, on Tuesday evening, January 26th, and the place was crowded to its utmost capacity. Pike, the chief official of the lodge, presided and conducted matters most pleasantly.

AT LAST the programme for the coming grand concert in aid of the German General Protestant Orphans' Home, at Ashland Hill, Natural Bridge road, has been decided upon, and it is safe to say that it has not been exceeded in brilliancy by that of any musical event of the season. The concert will take place at Mercantile Library Hall, Thursday, February 2, and outside of the beneficent object of the entertainment, music-lovers can find much to interest them.

A MOST pleasant and happy engagement culminated on Wednesday evening last at the Church of the Holy Ghost, corner of Eighth and Walnut streets, the contracting parties being Mr. H. A. SPORTING SQUIBS.

Pugilistic—Baseball Black List—Horse Notes—Other News

Tom Kelly will leave for New Orleans to-morrow night and prepare for his handling of Ryan in the ring in the fight of February 7.

According to observations around town there will be a large delegation of St. Louis sports at the Ryan-Sullivan fight. Quite a number have made full preparations to be present.

The Modocs' ball will probably take place on February 21 either at the Leiderkranz or the Germania hall; this will shortly be decided.

The boom in the ladies' gymnasium movement is something wonderful. Three weeks ago the movement started with a class of twenty or thirty and it now numbers 250.

As an example of the progress made in boating matters in St. Louis, it is cited that the Modocs' roll now embraces more members than did all the rowing clubs combined three years ago.

The alterations and improvements at the St. Louis Jockey Club headquarters now in progress will soon be completed. While not so flashy as formerly, the interior will be much more pleasing and decidedly more tasteful.

To-morrow afternoon the foot-ball match between the Hornet's and Mike Walsh's team, selected from his burley gladiators, will take place at Sportsman's Park, Grand avenue. The contest will be a hot one and the trophy, a fine foot-ball offered by Manager Cuthbert, will be the bone of a hard contention, not so much for its intrinsic value as for the sharp rivalry existing between the combating teams. The winners will probably have it gilded and inscribed. The park will be thrown open to all who wish to see the sport, which will not be of the kid-glove order. During the afternoon there will be several other competitions in the athletic line.

The friends of John T. Murphy, of Eastern avenue, a veteran baseball player, are anxious to see him re-enter the diamond field, and are urging him to do so.

Mr. Walter B. Jennings and Mr. Hall, the well known thoroughbred fanciers of Moberly, were in town this morning and visited the Cote Brilliante track and expressed themselves delighted with the appearance of everything. They recently sold their fine thoroughbred mare Pearl Jennings, to Mr. McCarrigan, of Leadville, Col., who will enter, he in the three-year-old classes this year, together with her engagements for $2,500. Messrs. Jennings and Hall are on their way to Kentucky to buy a number of two and three-year-old thoroughbreds.

The Secretary of the American Association writes to say that the following players are named in the League list of expelled and black-listed players: Expelled—James Devlin, W. H Carer, Al. Nichols, George Hall, Alex McKinnon, C. W. Jones, Philip Baker. Black-listed—S. P. Houck, L. P. Dickerson, Lipman Pike, M. J. Dorgan, Ed. Nolan, W. Crowley, J. J. Fox, E. M. Gross, L. J. Brown and J. Ca kins. The League Secretary declines giving reasons of expulsion and black listing, another very questionable method of showing its "indifference" to the American Association. It would look as though the upper hand was getting on the other wrist very rapidly.

A malicious, untruthful and double-barreled falsehood having been circulated to the effect that the Browns were in favor of dropping out all clubs in the American Association east of Pittsburg, inquiry was made to one of the officials of the Browns who knows whereof he speaks, and he said: "You stigmatize it as a lie. President Von der Ahe made some very innocent remarks about a western association, but these were twisted evidently, and received further embellishment from the League organs. Mr. Williams, the secretary, is now engaged on the schedule, and it will embrace all the clubs in the association. We will have to carry out our part of the programme or be expelled; that is all there is in it, and you can see what a foolish misrepresentation it is."

A Dishonest Employe.

Among the prisoners at the Chestnut street station is a negro named Moberly, who is held to answer a charge of burglary and larceny preferred by his last employer, Mr. A. E. Green. Moberly, when arrested, admitted his guilt and implicated a few other employes in the offense. Mr. Green manages a printing establishment on Walnut, near Fourth street, and derived considerable revenue from waste paper. About two months ago this source of revenue was stopped, the paper disappearing nightly. A close watch was kept, but until a few days ago no clue was obtained, when Mr. Green accidentally discovered the house to which his paper was being sold. A description of the person disposing of the paper tallied with Moberly, who was arrested and admitted the charge. Mr. Green estimates his loss at $200. Another young man was arrested on Moberly's statement, but released, Mr. Green thinking the charge could not be sustained.

Permanent Improvements.

The largest building permit issued since the beginning of the year was granted C. T. Rose during the present week giving him permission to erect a two-story brick pork house on the corner of Joab and Virginia streets; the cost is estimated at $20,000.

Thirty other permits were issued since January 22, the whole sum represented by these including the above mentioned $20,000, amounting to $65,375. Three thousand six hundred and fifty dollars represents the amount expended in frame erections. Of the permits for brick structures 15 were for dwellings, 3 for stores, 1 for a grist mill, 1 for a pork house, 1 for a shop, 1 for a kiln, and 1 for a smoke house. Of the frame, 9 were for dwellings, 3 for stables and 2 for kitchens. The total amount expended in permanent improvements during the present year since January 1, 1882, is $203,375.

Court Crumbs.

Francis H. Cobb has filed an attachment suit against Simon Rosenberg, of the closed bucket-shop, to recover $350.

The default divorce docket will be called in Judge Horner's court on Monday morning. There are fourteen cases to be disposed of.

Letters of administration were granted to-day to Elizabeth Schnaider, executrix of Joseph Schnaider, the late brewer, estate; valued at $300,000.

John H. Tracy, administrator of the estate of David Nicholson, has filed suit in the Circuit Court and paid into the clerk's hands $500, the amount of rent for a leasehold on Fifth and Myrtle streets which is claimed by various parties as trustees.

A petition for divorce was filed to-day by Kossuth against Amanda C. Morgan. The parties were married here September 25, 1873, and lived together until December 28, 1880. At that time Mrs. Morgan betook herself to parts unknown, and the husband has remained in the dark as to her whereabouts.

Missing.

August Ruhe, aged 16 years, 5 feet 4 inches high, light gray eyes, left his home, No. 1,325 South Seventh street, on last Thursday morning and has been missing since. His mysterious absence was reported to the police by his anxious parents to-day.

Cupid's Matinee.

Marriage licenses were granted this morning to Joseph Vonname and Bertha Maerz, Frank A. W. Hussel and Rose Weick, Louis P. Illert and Frederika Helgold, Louis Pelster and Louise Hansjurrgen.

THE ladies and gentlemen residing at the Watkin's North Park Place Hotel, gave a grand hop last Wednesday evening.

A CELEBRATED BEAUTY.

EVERY LADY
Has a Right to be Beautiful.

But no lady whose skin is disfigured with specks and blemishes and blotches and pimples, can ever hope to take the prize for beauty. Many a lady has suffered mental torture beyond expression, because of the unsightly condition of a face disfigured by pimples and eruptions, for the removal of which she would have paid any price. Some ladies have been all their lives in bondage to this mortification, and have kept themselves secluded from society on account of it. Every Lady may have an attractive face, with soft, pure and unblemished skin, if she will. Not by aid of lotions or plasters, or unguents. These make the mischief worse. The cause of the trouble lies below the surface. It is in the blood. Impure blood must in some manner send out its impurities just as the earth must find vent for its pent-up fires in the eruptions of Vesuvius and Ætna. Eruption on the skin are volcanoes and cannot be quenched by outside application. But the mischievous and volcanic action of impurities in the system has been found to yield to one purifying agent. The "D'EFFIAT BLOOD AND SKIN REMEDY" was discovered over a century ago by L'Abbe D'Effiat, one of the most famous of French Chemists It kept that CELEBRATED BEAUTY, Madame Ninon de L'Enclos in all the fresh bloom of youth till she was past ninety It was used by the ladies of the Court of France and kept a secret. The discoverer imparted his knowledge to a physician of this country, and American ladies are now reaping the advantage of it. RIVER NEWS.

THE Bald Eagle was down from Alton yesterday.

THE City of Greenville, a noted Anchor Line boat, departs for Vicksburg to-day at the usual hour. Joe Bryan, master.

CAPT. KIRKER'S Buckeye State departs for Pittsburg this evening. She has fine passenger accommodations, Jenkens and Sass, agents.

THE Lady Lee leaves for the Ouachita this evening. Her cargo is owned by Scharff & Barnkeimer, who sent out the Jo Kinney two weeks ago.

RIVER 1½ feet by the gauge and rising. Business fair, with indications of an improvement soon. Passenger travel to points south will be heavy next month.

THE new and elegant Anchor Line steamer City of New Orleans takes her departure for the Crescent City this evening: A. J. Carter commands and Archie Woods presides in the office. A large number of people will go south on this fine steamer this evening,

THE question of again changing the steamboat signals on the Western rivers has been brought up in the meeting of the Board of Supervisors by Mr. Fehrenbatch. He proposes to so modify the present system that if the down boat does not signal in time the up boat shall have the right to give the signal. To this it is objected that the up boat might not have heard a signal already given by the down boat, and then an attempt by the up boat to move as if it was the first to signal might lead to a fatal misunderstanding. If this change is formally presented to the board, an amendment will be presented to return to the rules governing signals as they existed before the last change was made.

A CROOK'S CAREER.

A Half a Life Spent Behind the Bars in Jails and Penitentiary.

The Record of the Man Who Taught Ward, the Executed Murderer, to Read the Bible.

A private detective, formerly connected with the Police Department of this city, a few days ago found very interesting memoranda among his papers in an overhauling. It is the notes of a record of a crook's life. A few months ago Charles Lewis went to the Jefferson City penitentiary under a sentence of seven years imposed by Judge Laughlin in the Criminal Court. Lewis, who is well known in New York and Philadelphia, came to this city about two years ago. He was unknown uutil February 4, 1880, when Mr. Joseph Rose's residence in North St. Louis was entered by burglars and a short time afterwards Detectives Huthsing, Stewart, Tucker, Rahill and Page arrested Val. Burke and an unknown man in a house on the east side of Seventh street, between Poplar and Spruce. Burke surrendered when the dectectives "pulled" the room, but the new man made which, luckily for the officers, was tightly held in his pocket under his coat and a lady's sealskin sacque, which he wore to conceal. The man was identified as Charles Lewis through Superintendent Byrne, of New York, and Allan Pinkerton, of Chicago. He said that he had come from the East with recommendations to Burke, whom his friends represented as a nervy, shrewd man, which he knew to be false. Lewis' picture was taken, and his entry made on

DESPERATE EFFORTS TO REACH HIS REVOLVER,

THE BOOKS OF THE ROGUES' GALLERY

at Four Courts as follows:

Name—Charles Lewis alias Reilly alias Hooper; age, 37 years; height. 5 10⅛; hair dark and curly, dark brown side cheeks and moustache; complexion, sallow, two ink spots in crotch of the thumb of left hand; eyes hazel; sound teeth; single ink dot in thum crotch of the right hand; build slim and well put up; weight, 150; nationality, American; No. 8 shoes.

Racket, bank sneak and burglar; pals—Val Burke, Johnny Casey, big Frank McCloy, Abe Cokeley, big nose Pete alias Peter Luther alias Banjo Pete. Date of picture, December 6, 1879.

He was a man of good education and when committed to jail formed a liking for William Ward, the murderer of Annie Lewis, who was executed two weeks ago. He taught Ward how to read and write during the two hours of every day they were together during their confinement in jail. Instead of taking the usual hour's exercise in the morning and evening as the other prisoners did he would take Ward to one side and give him a less... which he was expected to prepare and be ready to recite at the next exercise hour. After Lewis received his sentence he told the detective that when he would be 47 years of age he would have spent over twenty-five years in prison, and gave him the

which was preserved for the New York Police and Pinkerton's Agency: "I was born in 1842 and am, consequently, nearly 39 years old now. When I will be 47 years of age over half my life will have been spent behind the bars. I received a fair education, going to school until ... was nearly 18 years of ... when I fell in with some yo... crooks in New York City. We did... undertake any large jobs, but contented ourselves with pulling dampers (tapping tills). I was arrested and sent to the Albany Reform School, where I remained for nearly three years. This was about the time in my life that I stopped to think, but I was no sooner released than I picked up with my old crowd, and some new associates of as bad an ilk. In that reform school I learned more about crooks and their ways and identity, and what the noted ones had done than, I believe, I have ever learned since. In July, 1863, Detectives G'Conners and Fields nailed me for a bank job and after a poor trial I got seven years in Sing Sing, which lasted me until 1870. My skirts were not very clear very long. In '71 I was taken with Billy Jackson, Napoleon Le Mountain and Mack Schinburn for a $22,000 bank sneak in Buffalo. Schinburn got over to Canada and was clear, but he went back to Vermont and got twenty years for his share of a job. For the Buffalo job I was sent to Auburn, where I spent seven years, and after I got out I thought I'd come west. Some friends in the East

RECOMMENDED ME TO VAL. BURKE OF ST. LOUIS.

They told me he was a sharp, shrewd, nervy man, and knew the town like a book. When we were pulled he showed the white feather first pop, and never made a kick. On the trial they failed to identify the watch found on him until Detective Tucker took the stand, and swore it was the same, but he was discharged. I got thirteen years at first, and I don't know that I'll live to serve my time out."

Lewis and his associates are well-known in the East, and when asked why he came west, Lewis jokingly told Detective O'Neil that he was becoming too popular in the East. He was confined at the Four Courts jail for over a year, and during that time began the foundation for an education for several prisoners. Mr. Jones, his attorney, knew of his long life behind the bars, but at that time it was kept quiet so as not to prejudice his case or give an advantage to the Circuit Attorney.

WE have witnessed the magical effect of St. Jacobs Oil in the most severe cases of rheumatism, and without hesitancy pronounce it the greatest remedy in the market. The Cincinnati Enquirer mentions the following statement from Mr. Burton, of the great stove firm of Redway & Burton that city: "My boy was afflicted with the rheumatism badly. We had doctored him a great deal, but could find no cure. I saw St. Jacobs Oil advertised so much, heard so much of its good qualities, that I at last determined to try it. I must say that it beats all my doctoring hollow. Two bottles of St. Jacobs Oil cured my boy of rheumatism when all other remedies which I had tried failed."

A Case in Point.

Some time ago allusion was made in these columns to the non-removal of rubbish and debris at public buildings. which has been accumulating all the winter, and yesterday a still alarm was sent to engine house of No. 6 at Seventh and Olive streets and several firemen were detailed to find what the trouble was at 314 North Sixth street, from whence the alarm came. A dense smoke was rising from between walls at the rear of the building where a quantity of old paper and rubbish of one kind or another had been thrown and it was in quite a blaze. The porch at the back of the building was surrounded by a mass of dry wood work and some of the adjacent buildings were protected merely by a thin layer of slate. This porch was heaped high with boxes, barrels and other receptacles, jammed full of ashes and cinders, and it required but a slight ignition from a hot coal from one of these to create a fire which might have resulted in enormous damage, as the spot was in the center of several important business houses and was in an indescribably filthy and confused ... speedily put out. ... cor... city authorities do not do so. The case in point was not an exception, but unfortunately the rule. As was said before, some of the ash flues and the closets in public buildings are in a terrible condition, and the wonder is that there are not more fires and sickness thus generated.

AN enthusiastic audience witnessed the performance of the Marion Dramatic Club at St. Vincent's Hall on last Wednesday evening. The singing of Mr. Geo. Knopp of "Somebody's Coming" was heartily applauded. A character song, entitled "Kindling Wood," was beautifully rendered by Mr. John B. Collins. The feature of the evening was the rendition by the club of "A Raffle for a Stove," a musical farce, which kept the audience in roars of laughter. The entertainment was a success in every way.

We deem it our mission to cover the human form artistically and with uniform fine shape, true balance and harmonious proportions.
